Efforts to save fuel increased

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Increasingly wintry weather and developments in the international oil situation are prompting more efforts to conserve fuel in the United States.

Canada complicated the U. S. oil problem Friday by increasing its tax on crude oil exports from 40 cents a barrel to $1.90 a barrel.

Bearing the brunt of the tax hike will be the Canadian border areas of the Midwest and Far West, which consume the bulk of the one million gallons of Canadian oil used daily in the U. S.

The effect of the ban on oil shipments to the United States imposed by nine Arab nations is worse than first thought, federal officials said as they promised to use immediately an emergency plan to combat fuel shortages.

"The crisis is much worse than all of us anticipated a week ago," said Chairman Henry A. Jackson of the Senate Interior Committee.

He added that he had reached agreement with White House energy advisor John A. Love on a decision to implement the emergency plan after he found the Arab cutback on oil shipments would result in a daily loss of 3.3 million barrels of oil, not 1.2 million barrels as originally estimated.

On Monday, foreign ministers representing the nine European Common Market countries open two-day discussions on the situation that will include scrutiny of the Arabs' cut off of oil to the Netherlands, a market member.

The Arabs have accused the Dutch of coupling a friendliness for the Israelis with a decision to serve as a transfer point for Israel-bound U. S. arms shipments.

West Germany and other European oil consumers rely heavily on a pipeline that uses Rotterdam as a terminal.

The first in an expected series of cutbacks in crude oil shipments to Japan was announced by Shell International of Britain. Shell announced a 10 per cent reduction in deliveries and a 17 per cent price hike on oil destined for Japan, which receives 80 per cent of its oil from the Middle East.

In the United States, the Senate Commerce Committee approved a bill Friday requiring manufacturers to indicate estimated operating costs of heating and cooking appliances on labels.

Vermont started planning the use of voluntary daylight saving time that would provide an extra hour of daylight in the evening and one less hour of peak heating- fuel consumption.

A new state office of emergency service assistance in Wisconsin plans to organize fuel inventories and distribute surpluses to needy areas.

An Indiana official said the fuel shortage and poor distribution system could close plants and put Hoosiers out of work.

Hawaii's major supplier of gasoline, Standard Oil Co. of California, now limits its retail gasoline outlets to purchasing only 95 per cent of the volume they bought last November.

The shortage also is affecting public transportation. A cutback in bus fuel by Cleveland and Memphis suppliers will lead to reductions in service in those cities, public transit officials say.

Overdrying is costly

Overdrying soybeans can be costly because the water in the bean is worth money when the farmer sells it. When the moisture level in a bushel of soybeans drops from 13 per cent to 10 per cent, nearly two pounds of water are removed. At $6 a bushel, the loss is 20 cents. Drying beyond the safe moisture level also takes longer and consumes more fuel and electricity. (Daily Standard photo by Ron Porter)

Johnson faces charges

CHARLESTON-- Felony charges of breaking, entering and stealing were filed Friday afternoon against Larry Johnson, 24, and Ronnie Lane, 22, of East Prairie in connection with a Thursday break- in at the Melvin Guinn home near East Prairie, according to Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons.

The two were arrested Friday in East Prairie by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivy after the sheriff's department was notified by an unidentified person that he had purchased the stolen articles which included a portable color television set, stereo combination and five speakers from the two men.

Lane and Johnson are in the Mississippi County jail and bond was set at $10,000 each.

Thieves enter Martin house

James Martin, Route Two, told police Friday that someone had entered his home between 5:30 a.m. and 4:35 p.m. Thursday and stole items valued at $229.

Taken were a .30- .30 caliber rifle with scope valued at $130, a belt sander valued at $25; a drill worth $25 and a power saw worth $49.

Police said entry was gained by breaking out a window.

Firemen called twice Friday

Firemen answered two fire calls Friday night, one to a trash fire and the other on a false alarm.

At 6:08 p.m. they were called to extinguish a trash fire behind Nunnelee Funeral Chapel, 205 N. Stoddard.

At 8:06 p.m. they were called to the new Barkett's Big Star Market under construction at Midtowner Village Shopping Center on a false alarm.

Scott farm income tops $25 million; expenses up

Although farming and ranching have not been the most lucrative of occupations in recent years, Scott County's agricultural community has been making out better than most, it appears.

The majority of local farmers held their own last year and a number of them, especially those with well-equipped, commercial- size setups, ended up well ahead of the previous year.

Credit for it is attributed to record output, made possible by generally favorable weather conditions, by greater mechanization and by more intensive use of fertilizers and pesticides.

Gains were made in nearly every section of the country. The Northeast, which was hit by heavy and continuous rains, was an exception.

The facts and figures, showing how local growers fared in relations to others, are contained in a survey released by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

It reports total receipts in Scott County from farm operations in the past year at $28,588,000. Two years ago, when it made a similar survey, it listed the total at $23,592,000.

That was the gross amount, before deductions for operating costs and taxes.

Included in it are the cash receipts from the sale of farm goods, together with government payments and income in kind, which is the value of products grown and consumed on the farm.

The increase, 21.2 percent, compares with a 16.7 percent rise in the United States and with 19.7 percent in the West North Central States.

According to the most recent figures from the Department of Agriculture, approximately 60 percent of the total received locally from the sale of farm products came from the marketings of crops and 40 percent from livestock, poultry and dairy goods.

Although the past year was a big one for the American farmer in terms of gross income, it was also a

1,600 new jobs created in area

Over 1,600 new manufacturing jobs have been created since the Industrial development office of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission was opened in September 1972, according to industrial development specialist Bill Wellborn.

Wellborn spoke to a regional industrial development meeting Thursday in Sikeston at which Marion Waggoner of Charleston was elected to head the Bootheel Industrial Planning Commission for the coming year. He replaces Percy Clippard of Dexter.

He said the jobs have created over $9 million in new manufacturing income during the year.

Wellborn said the BIDC staff had worked with several prospects during the past month which have expressed an interest in locating in the Bootheel. They include two metal fabricating companies, an aircraft manufacturer, a steel fence- wire manufacturer, a steel pipe and tube company and a brewing company.

Next year's efforts he said, will include expansion of direct mail campaign

Agriculture has a large impact on local economy

Agriculture has a greater impact on the lives and economy of Sikeston residents than most people realize, says Ken Walters, newly named chairman of the Sikeston Jaycee Outstanding Young Farmer Committee.

Scott Matthews of Sikeston is co- chairman of the event.

Walters will coordinate the Jaycee program which recognizes the importance of agriculture to the local economy and honors Sikeston's outstanding young farmer.

This is the 17th year the Jaycees have conducted a national OYF Program. Co-sponsoring the local program is Sonny Presley Chevrolet and Coffey's TV and Appliance.

Agriculture, Walters says, continues to contribute a large share of the total economic progress and wealth.

Farmers are receiving higher prices for their crops and livestock today but, at the same time, their operating costs are climbing at an ever increasing rate, he said.

"During this time of food shortages, the American farmer will, as he has before, do his best to increase the quality and quantity of food for home use and abroad," Walters added.

The Jaycees, under the direction of Walters and Matthews, will interview farmers between the ages of 18 and 35. From their reports a panel of judges will select the winner. The winner will be announced Nov. 20 at the Farmers Appreciation Banquet at Ramada Inn. Banquet tickets are being sold now by Sikeston civic clubs.

Local winners will compete in the state finals in January, and the state winner will progress to the national award program at a later date.

Splat! Contest was egg-citing

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP) — Two brothers have gone down in the record books Friday for their efforts in a contest in this southeast Missouri community, but it's doubtful that many will scramble to laud their success.

Dave and Jim Johnson emerged from a splattered street in the Farmington business district Friday to claim the national egg-throwing record after successfully throwing a raw egg 192 feet, 9 inches and catching it in tact. a spokesman for the sponsoring Farmington Parks and Recreation Department said the throw broke an American record of 189 feet.

The Johnsons' record-setting egg was among only seven of 132 eggs thrown by 11 teams taking part in the contest. The remains of the others covered the pavement.

An official of the egg-hurling event said the contest will become an annual affair, accepting challengers from anywhere in the country.

4 injured in accidents

Two traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Friday and early today resulted in injuries to four persons, according to the highway patrol.

Donald B. Sexton, 21, of Poplar Bluff received a serious head injury at 9:50 p.m. Friday 11 miles south of Poplar Bluff when his wrecker struck a car on Highway 160.

The accident occurred after a car driven by Roy Henderson, 62, of Doniphan had struck a bridge abutment and turned sideways in the road. The wrecker then struck the car in the side, and the vehicle being towed by the wrecker was jolted loose by the impact.

Sexton was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Three persons were injured in an accident at 5:15 a.m. today on Highway 142 eight miles south of Poplar Bluff.

The accident occurred when a southbound car driven by Freddie Williams, 32, of Neelyville swerved into the northbound lane and was struck in the right side by a northbound car driven by Wayne Dollins, 30, of Nellyville.

Williams received bruises and Joyce Williams, 24, a passenger, suffered cuts and bruises. Dollins sustained head cuts and a neck injury. All three were taken to Doctors Hospital.

Commenting on a poll of consumers by the American Farm Bureau Federation, Mrs. Haven Smith, chairman of the AFB Women's Committee, observes: "... the most interesting findings of this year's survey is the widespread acceptance -- by 86 per cent of the respondents -- of the idea that government should cut its spending. This solution to the problem of inflation was favored by a higher percentage of the people than any other proposed solution, including holding down union demands for higher wages or limiting profits of the food distribution industry or of farmers."

If the sentiments of consumers are accurately reflected in this survey and if they will support those elected officials at federal, state and local levels of government who are courageous enough to reject higher tax spending proposals, inflation can be controlled and respect for the dollar restored. As Mr. Smith adds, "The alternatives are further inflation, more price controls, food shortages, rationing, and black markets."

The same year, we spent $338.5 billion on local, state and federal government.

A BURNING QUESTION

It's an ill wind, etc.

The government's decision to clamp controls on the distribution of propane gas, to be allowed by rationing of heating oil, together with predictions of severe fuel shortages anyway if it's a hard winter, have caused a boom in sales of oldtime wood-burning stoves.

"It's unbelieveable," says a spokesman for one large manufacturer, who says he already has more orders on file than he can possibly fill. Ben Franklin's fireplace, which alwasy was an efficient heater but has been considered mostly a decorator item for lo, these many years, is also enjoying a comeback.

The phenomenon raises the question, of course, of where everybody is going to get the wood to burn in all these stoves, not to mention the effects on air pollution.

But one problem at a time please.

YES, YOU CAN CURE POLLUTION, IF

— You do away with most trucks and locomotives (how you get enough food to your stores is then your worry).

— You accept cleaner but far less powerful gasoline and therefore a slower, less powerful car.

— Wear clothes that aren't so glistening white (because detergents would have to be weaker).

— Pay higher taxes so your city can modernize waste disposal.

— Even go back to swatting flies by hand (modern fly killers contain poison of course).

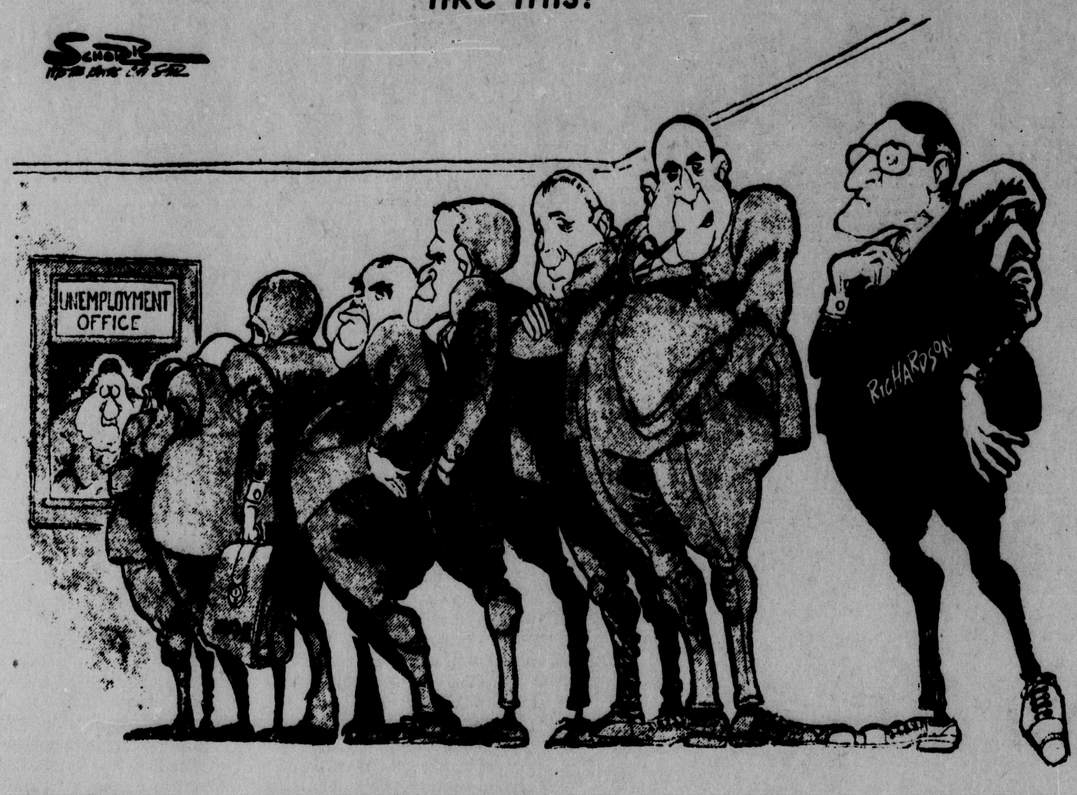

— Stop all airplane and bus travel.

— Have fewer people (many cities and even towns are so large they simply can not take care of their wastes).

Pollution — cause and cure — is everybody's business. Industry is doing yeomen service, spending millions of dollars to reduce and wherever possible stop pollution. But the greatest causes are people and their possessions, and until people are willing to pay the price, pollution and its terrible toll will continue.

A DANGEROUS DECISION

We are pleased that southeast Missouri's member of the State Highway Commission, Albert C. Riley of New Madrid, voted the right way on the issue of 14- foot mobile homes using state roads.

Commissioner Riley was one of two members of the six-member commission — Wm. R. Logan of Silex was the other — who voted against allowing monster trailes on highways.

The other four members went against the recommendations of the chief highway engineer, Robert N. Hunter and the professional highway staff and also snubbed the state Legislature by agreeing to allow the behemoths to traverse most state roads.

The four members who approved this measure are Jack Curtis of Springfield, commission chairman; Roger R. Linsin of St. Louis, Daniel Duncan of St. Joseph and Lynn Bauer of Kansas City.

Take another look at what the commission did:

Evidently realizing their action would cause protests across the state, they took the action in September, but made no public announcement. The commission's action became known only two weeks ago.

Take another look at the commission's decision:

It was done despite the fact the Legislature withdrew in the 1971 session a bill which would have accomplished the same thing. The Legislature took the measure off the calendar because of public protest.

In effect, the commission has done by decree what the Legislature would not do by law because the public did not want it.

Under the regulation, which will be for a one- year trial period, 14- foot- wide mobile homes will be allowed to move between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on 12 - foot highways lanes. Traffic would be stopped at bridges where the lanes are less than 14 feet. Movement would be allowed on sections of road with 11 - foot lanes.

Speeds of 55 miles per hour would be permitted on divided roads and 40 miles per hour on other roads.

Mobile homes of 14- foot width on 12- foot highway lanes are prohibitively unsafe. On 11- foot highways the danger factor increases. On bridges, with traffic to be halted, there is an open invitation to accident.

A 14 - foot mobile home, even on a divided highway, is a road hazard for motorists at any speed, much less 55 miles per hour.

The State Highway Commission is issuing an open invitation to accidents by its action. It is exceptionally difficult for rank and file Missourians to understand why it would fly in the face of its own staff and the Legislature.

We join with those protesting throughout the state and urge the commission, in the interests of public safety, to rescind its action.

DOWNGRADES HOLY PROFIT MOTIVE

Whether he is representative of a new breed of corporation president or is a lone "maverick," businessman Jay Monroe delivered some interesting comments recently to the New Enterprise Club of the Harvard Business School.

"We have to break with the maximizing - of- efficiency tradition," said Monroe, president of the Tensor Corp. "The concept that all is fair in the pursuit of increased earnings per share is dangerous and simplistic ... The whole world could explode."

He clamped down particularly hard on "MBA-type" (master of business administration) thinking which, he alleges, equates success with profits.

To Monroe, "success is measured by a company being in a sufficiently good position to be able to innovate." But formalized business tradition, he claims, discourages innovation.

"I am not putting down profit per se," said Monroe. "But there are other things to be derived from a company apart from building profits for stockholders."

As far as stockholders are concerned, "I don't feel any obligation towards them, apart from complying with Securities Exchange Commission regulations as they relate to sales of an initial issue ... If they still choose to invest, then that's their business.

"I don't think one owes even that much, however, to the subsequent investors because they didn't invest in the company, they simply bought the stock from somebody else. If they're not satisfied with their investment, they can sell it. They're just in for the ride."

If it was going to cost, say, 30 cents a share to invest in antipollution equipment for example, Monroe would adivse his stockholders of this, but would also tell them that "they owe it to society to improve the environment."

This kind of corporate thinking is refreshing, and maybe a little courageous.

FOOD COUNTS MOST

History may record that the American farmer was a decisive influence on the course of events leading to peace. Free enterprise agriculture in the United States has made this country an important food larder for the entire world -- notably for communist countries where agricultural efficiency and the incentives to produce are abysmally low. U.S. News & World Report states, "A need for food is influencing policies. Russia is buying some 30 million tons of grain abroad. Red China is buying too, from Canada, U. S., Argentina ... Hungry nations, like hungry people, want to stay close to the sources of food supply. Only major source for food in such quantities is the U. S."

Many have professed surprise when increased American military pressure on North Vietnam brought no retaliation from the big communist powers. The explanation for this lack of response may well turn out to be the food- producing capacity of U. S. farmers was more important to Russia -- and China -- than th military plight of North Vietnam.

EVERYBODY'S OUT OF STEP BUT ARABS

The Arab ploy to implicate the United States in Israel's raid on Palestinian guerrilla headquarters in Beirut, Lebanon, is quite in keeping with their behavior throughout the generation - long conflict in the Middle East.

Unable or unwillingly to accept reality, the Arabs continue to blame everyone but themselves for their setbacks.

It was not the Israelis' determination to survive in the face of attempts to drive them "into the sea" that was responsible for Arab defeat in every military showdown since then. It has never been Arab shortcomings or Arab mistakes. No, it is always the fault of some outside power, usually the United States.

This detachment from reality was distressingly obvious in the remarks made by Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed el Sayyat as he paused in Rome on his way to the United Nations.

"My government wants to know," he told newsmen, "what the entire world intends to do against a country that practices assassination as a systematic policy method."

Nevermind that the entire world has long been waiting to see what the Arab nations intended to do against the terrorism practiced as a systematic policy method by the Palestianian fanatics in their midst.

Nevermind that the Israeli raid was not directed against innocent civilians or athletes or diplomats but was an inevitable reaction in self- defense against those who descended to assassination and terror in the first place.

Equally distressing is the behavior of the Soviet Union in the U. N. Despite recent moves toward a dente with the United States and rising hopes that the cold war was a thing of the past, the Soviets have revealed themselves to be at the same old stand still dealing in the same old shoddy goods.

As for the Chinese, without whose participation we were told the United Nations could never be an effective force for peace, they have used the debate as an opportunity to score points against both the United States and the U.S.S.R.

As U. S. ambassador to the U.N., John Scali, said, Arab charges against the United States are the same "big lie" technique once practiced so well by the Nazis.

The tragedy is that the Arabs fully believe the lie and are thus setting the stage for more bloody confrontations with Israel and more setbacks — which, of course, will again be everybody's fault but their own.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

How White House Kept the Lid On Presidential Homes' Costs

WASHINGTON -- Suppressed documents show that the White House kept a tight lid on all information relating to expenditures on President Nixon's estates at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

Earlier this year, we reported that former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman directed the extensive San Clemente renovations at a cost to the taxpayers running into the millions.

We have now obtained documents which show Haldeman used a trusted aide, John R. Brown III, to keep tight, total control of the cost information on the presidential retreats. He made sure no unauthorized information leaked out.

"I am the only individual," Brown wrote in 1970 to then General Services Administrator Robert Kunzig, "to whom they (GSA officials) should release cost information concerning your support for White House-involved projects such as Key Biscayne, San Clemente, the West Wing, etc."

'CONFUSION'

Stating there had been "a degree of confusion on the matter," Brown declared in his White House memo: "I believe that it will be easier on all concerned for you to communicate through only one point of contact on the White House staff."

Brown's role as the cost coordinator and censor is revealed in other documents as well. A classified GSA memo, for example, indicates that "the White House will reimburse GSA for cleaning private residences, chafing dishes, ice, etc.

"Any requests other than direct from White House members for additional services in the mansion are to be cleared by John Brown in Washington. Bill for rental of sheets to cover furniture in the residence to be sent to John Brown for payment."

Another GSA document reveals that Brown arranged for a private employe of the Nixon Foundation to use government offices at San Clemente. "Miss Loie Gaunt who is employed by the Nixon Foundation...," states the memo, "has been assigned one of the guest offices in Building B." This was "requested," the memo adds, "by John Brown."

'ADMINISTRATIVE'

Brown confirmed to us that he had handled "administrative functions" and had paid for expenditures at the Nixon estates. He explained that he had used government, political and personal funds to pay the bills. "My instruction," he said, "were to protect against misappropriation of government funds. The problem was not a lack of funds but misappropriation."

Personal expenditures, Brown said, were paid out of the President's personal funds. Expenses of "a political nature" were paid by the Republican National Committee.

He didn't recall whether any money was used at San Clemente from the White House "Special Projects Fund." Because the White House has refused to provide Congress with a listing of expenditures from this annual $1.5 million fund, Congress has cut if off.

FOOTNOTE: The White House had no comment to make, escept to say that the Nixon Foundation employe had not been assigned government office space at San Clemente. When told of the GSA memo, the White House spokesman insisted there was "no recollection of her having been assigned space."

BOOTLEG REPORT: We have obtained a bootleg copy of the inch- thick report which so infuriated Space Administrator James Fletcher that he fired the agency's top woman, Deputy Assistant Administrator Ruth Bates Harris.

Mrs. Harris, who ran the space agency's equal opportunity programs, told Fletcher that as far as blacks and women were concerned, the program is a "near total failure." At the present rate, the agency's black employment will reach nine per cent only by the year 2001. As for women, 88 per cent are in the lowest grades.

"There are "no minority or female astronauts," the document goes on. "There have been three females sent into space by NASA. Two are Arabella and Anita-- both spiders. The other is Miss Baker-- a monkey."

After Fletcher got the scathing report, he fired Mrs. Harris. The firing, he declared, was the result of "discord and divisiveness," not the Harris report.

CABLE FROM ISRAEL: By secret cable, Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban has sent his ambassador in Washington, Simcha Dinitz, an impassioned note to circulate at the highest levels of the U. S. government.

The note stresses the great value the outnumbered Israelis place on every human life and calls for help in learning the fate of Israeli prisoners of war.

The note reports, as of October 24 when the shooting stopped, that Israel had given a full report to the International Red Cross on the 988 Egyptians, 295 Syrians, 12 Iraqis and five Moroccans in Israeli custody.

But virtually no information had been received about Israeli prisoners. "No information whatsoever has been received from Syria," the note alleges. "As to Egypt, an utterly incomplete, unsatisfactory and garbled list of 37 Israeli prisoners of war has been received..."

Seek Boyle's Execution: Yablonski Murder Mystery Still Open; What Happened to Miners' Union Millions?

WASHINGTON-- It is the last mile for the former little King Coal, Tony Boyle, who as ex- miners' union chief regularly dispenses scores of millions of dollars. The shattered 71- year- old Boyle may yet be the first who bore the title of international union president to wind up in an execution chamber.

There's death pallor on his face. Last September he swallowed almost 70 capsules of sodium amytal--- enough barbiturates to kill the Redskins' backfield.

Since psychiatrists have reported he is mentally competent to stand trial--- though still suicide- prone--- he will be heard in federal court Nov. 9 and then moved to Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 12th. He'll be arraigned before a federal court there on charges of conspiring to deprive the rebellious miner Jock Yablonski of his civil rights by murdering him and the women in his family.

Once in Pennsylvania, special state prosecutor Richard Sprague will move to have Boyle remanded to prison without bond where he can be under constant surveillance so he doesn't again attempt to kill himself. Sprague wants the state to have the pleasure.

The prosecutor reportedly is convinced, despite Supreme Court rulings, he can get an execution verdict in a state trial. There will be two trials, one in federal court during February or March on the civil rights charge and one by the state on straightaway murder charges.

There are still on- going FBI investigations into cover- up attempts--- for which the penalty would be five years for those who tried to protect Boyle and the others he ordered to murder Yablonski.

So, Tony Boyle, until death does him part, will spend the rest of his life in prison unless pardoned by both the President and the governor of Pennsylvania. So the murder finally is solved.

But the why isn't. Why was Yablonski killed after Boyle had beaten him in the 1969 election?

Had the Yablonskis not been sadistically ripped open by bullets, first the daughter, then the wife and finally Jock himself, there probably wouldn't have been a re- run election. If the miners had not seen red blood on the ballots, Boyle probably would have won. As it was he piled up some 56,000 votes and a swing of some thousands more would have preserved his domain.

What was Jock Yablonski about to tell a grand jury when he was murdered in his bed in the final hours of 1969?

Could it have been something about the huge United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund? In the past 27 years, under the late deified John L. Lewis and his personal aide and successor Tony Boyle, it has paid out over $3.5 billion.

At the current rate it takes in about a quarter of a billion dollars annually. The money comes from mine owners royalty payments which have virtually doubled in the past three years from 40 cents a ton to the current 70 cents. On Nov. 12 the rate will go to 75 cents and then to 80 cents the end of next April.

Not too long after the killings, a suit by 70 miners and widows was activated against the fund, the union and Boyle. It may sound corny, but the widows and orphans, the elderly miners and those crippled by backbreaking slate falls and other injuries charged that the Boyle bloc was guilty of conspiracy, breach of trust and mismanagement of trust funds.

The claimants sought $75 million in damages. Even Tony Boyle couldn't take that much out of his salary and petty cash account.

There was also a matter of some $70 million to $80 million and perhaps more being held in non- interest bearing accounts in the union-controlled National Bank of Washington. There was also the movement of tens of millions of dollars in union funds to various union districts whose officers were not locally elected but were appointed first by John Lewis, then by Boyle.

Did any of this money wind up in political hands? The miners political operation always was potent in coal field states- - and that means cash in any man's party.

It is generally forgotten that Boyle must go to prison for five years on charges of violating the federal election laws by contributing almost $50,000 of the union's central treasury cash to Vice President Hubert Humphrey's 1968 presidential campaign.

Boyle just passed it along. He knew he was breaking the law. He was frequently warned verbally and in writing by his staffers and legal advisers that he was defying the statutes. He was told not to contribute in this fashion even by check. There are communications to prove all this. When he was told it was illegal and would get them into prison, he reportedly just wrote back, in effect, well I'll think about it.

So though it's Tony Boyle's last mile, though there may be the execution chamber at the end of his road--- the story is far from finished. There may be millions for which to account. And where there's a giver there's a taker. The government spent over $5 million to set this union straight.

A few more dollars for a new federal probe might well disclose where many millions of coaldiggers' dollars went. Boyle's the symptom. Now let's cure the disease.

Judge disqualified in Cluck hearing

KENNETT — Jerry Lee Cluck, 25, of the Malden-Dexter area has been granted a request to disqualify Magistrate Leon McAnally from presiding over the latest charges filed against the defendant by the state.

Magistrate Jack Jolly of Butler County has been requested to sit on the bench for a preliminary hearing for Cluck, who now faces his second burglary charge in the county in less than a year. Still pending against Cluck are burglary charges filed early in February.

Cluck was charged by Pros. Atty. Charles Baker with allegedly burglarizing a Clarkton service station after murder charges against the defendant were dropped in New Madrid County recently.

Cluck had been charged with allegedly murdering a 16- year- old girl from Malden who disappeared shortly before she was to testify against Cluck on a burglary charge in that county. The murder charge was subsequently dropped when one of the witnesses was killed in a car crash and the second refused to testify.

Baker said Cluck's hearing has now been set for 1:30 p.m. Nov. 9. The defendant, who has a court- appointed attorney on the burglary charge still pending, has retained his own attorney to represent him on the latest charge.

Miss Tucker is cash scholarship recipient

Barbara Tucker

HAYTI — Barbara Jo tucker of Sikeston, a sophomore at Lincoln University in Jefferson City was a recent recipient of a cash scholarship donated by the Hayti Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Barbara has been selected to serve as dormitory counselor at Bennett Hall for this year.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Tucker of 308 Westgate St., Sikeston.

Other recipients of sorority scholarships were Dora Hunter of Hayti, who is attending Lincoln University; Gercedia Adams of Caruthersville, who is attending University of Missouri- St. Louis; Harrison Marr Jr., a graduate of Portageville High School and now a freshman at Arkansas State University at Jonesboro; and Larry Gene Duncan, a graduate of Portageivlle High School presently enrolled in The School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout.

All officers re-elected

JEFFERSON CITY — The Commission for Municipal Pooling Services re- elected all of its first- year officers and directors at its first annual meeting Thursday, then reviewed legislation to be introduced in the next session of the Missouri General Assembly and welcomed the city of Poplar Bluff as a new member.

E. R. "Dick" Inman of Sikeston, chairman of the commission's natural gas section, reported that section members are inviting other cities to join the section which seeks to purchase and operate its own natural gas distribution system.

The commission, an organization of cities formed last November with the objective of jointly furnishing essential municipal services, also heard a report from its engineering committee.

Officers re- elected were Keith D. Beardmore of Chillicothe, chairman; Earl Switzer of Macon, first vice chairman; Lowell Anderson of Carrollton, second vice chairman; and James Whitney of Trenton, secretary- treasurer.

Ray Callahan of Vandalia and Leo Smith of Hannibal were re- elected to the executive committee.

Hermann Mayor C. M. Bassman, chairman of the legislative committee, reviewed legislation to be introduced in the forthcoming session of the General Assembly which would grant the commission authority to issue and sell revenue bonds without obligating the member cities and to finance the acquisition and construction of facilities for municipal services.

John Bates of Fulton, chairman of the commission's engineering committee, announced the results of a survey to determine electrical energy needs of Missouri cities through the year 1976. The committee, it was announced, will continue its work to obtain an adequate supply of energy for the member cities.

Cecil R. Johnson, Poplar Bluff Light and Water Department manager, was the city's representative to the meeting.

Danforth speaks out on 'witch hunts'

GREENFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth has criticized "witch hunts" against corruption and says Republicans in Missouri have been guilty of it too.

Danforth, in a Republican dinner speech here Thursday night, said there is a "revived version of the McCarthyism of the 1950s ... in the name of eliminating corruption."

He said that while corruption in high places cannot be condoned, "in the name of governmental integrity we should never presume guilt on the part of public officials" when poof is lacking.

"I am concerned that confirmation hearings are beginning to resemble inquisitions," Danforth said.

"Immediately after the resignation of Mr. Agnew articles appeared in some Missouri newspapers suggesting the possibility that similar situations may have existed in this state in the past, or that the potentiality exists in the future for the receipt of bribes by people in high positions.

"These articles were supported by no facts whatever. They were nothing more than sensational conjecture. Again the thought was expressed that those in public life should be presumed corrupt."

"In recent weeks there appears to have been an almost frantic effort to suggest corruption in the administration of former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes," he said. "I do not believe that it is fair to make sweeping charges of impropriety unless those charges can be substaintiated in great detail.

"As Republicans, the time is past for looking backward to the bygone days of the Hearnes administration. We must stand or fall on our own performance ...

"The fact is that the overwhelming majority of people in government at all levels are decent and honest. Typically, they are underpaid for their efforts. But they are doing the best they can to render good public service. The quickest way to demoralize them is to create a widespread public belief that all politicans are crooks."

What's the Law?

The case of the human error

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Hubert contracted with an auctioneer for the latter to sell a piece of property for him. After the property was knocked down, however, Hubert had to be picked up. To his chagrin, he discovered he didn't own the property that he had asked the auctioneer to sell for him. And despite his numerous apologies for an honest mistake, nothing could dissuade the auctioneer from damanding his commission.

"As far as I'm concerned," insisted the auctioneer, "I did everything necessary to earn my fee. Because you make a mistake isn't my fault."

"But it was an honest mistake," Hubert continued to argue. "To err is human and to punish for a mistake is inhuman. Besides, a person can't collect a commission for selling something he couldn't sell. And you couldn't sell that property because I didn't own it."

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give the auctioneer a commission for selling something he couldn't sell?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that if a person contracts absolutely to sell that which he does not own, he is still bound by the terms of his agreement. Since the auctioneer, in this case, did all that he was required to under his agreement with Hubert to sell the property, concluded the judge, he both earned and was entitled to receive his commission.

Overprotection from violence is wrong

By SHAREN K. HUNT
Area Home Economist

Over- reaction to society's violence can lead parents and teachers to restrict young children's play in ways that may interfere with sound emotional development, cautions Dr. Maria Piers, director of the Erikson Institute for Early Childhood Education.

The psychologist fears that adults may go overboard in attempting to screen all violence from children's lives and get rid of or erase all aggressive behavior.

Some parents have gone overboard and now forbid children to watch popular TV shows and ban "violent" books, such as Mother Goose or Grimm's Fairy Tales, she notes, warning that "too strict censorship may do more harm than good. It can get a child so curious that he just "has to" look at those forbidden TV shows or books outside his home.

Then if he becomes frightened by what he sees, he doesn't feel free to talk about it with his parents, since he wasn't supposed to see it anyway. Pent up, his fears grow rather than diminish.

The violence-- "really a kind of pseudo- violence"-- that shows up in children's play is easily misinterpreted by parents and teachers, says the psychologist.

An adult sees kids pointing toy guns at each other and snatches the weapons away with a steamy lecture on "killing". Yet preschool educators know that even if the toy guns are removed from the playroom, children repeat the same shoot- outs with crayons, fingers, blocks, even plastic spoons.

To youngsters, guns are not deadly weapons, but symbols for their deep urge to project themselves into the world, an expression of their need to thrust forward at this time of life.

We see a child mistreating a doll or stuffed animal and react as if the child were torturing a living thing, "though there's always a good developmental reason for the child's action," points out Dr. Piers. For example, a child who feels displaced by a new baby may spank a doll long and angrily to relieve her feelings. Later, she puts the doll back and tucks it in, feeling better, knowing she hasn't hurt anybody.

Normal aggression exists where life exists, emphasizes the child development specialist. "It is a vital part of all human activity, a life-preserving quality." The young child becomes civilized as he learns to deal with his own aggression constructively.

In their zeal to raise non-violent human beings, there is danger that parents and teachers will forget that responsible, productive, peace- loving adults are those who learned to accept and cope with their stronger feelings...not those who have been taught to deny their existence or been punished for having them.

Expert Says Women Need Budget Study

NEW YORK (AP) — Women have mastered the task of juggling home and office but one thing escapes them, according to an investments expert.

"Most have not yet mastered the art of balancing their budgets," says Julius Jensen III, chief executive officer of the Continental Investment Corp. of Boston.

Jensen adds that women work in every conceivable segment of business and industry and maintain superb control over all facets of their lives. But he feels that too many women have not paid attention to everyday problems of handling their own financial affairs.

"They should devote as much time to their money as they do to their looks," Jensen says. "Too often, they save for a cloudy day, a new coat or a miracle morning at the beauty salon, overlooking that nebulous world of the future."

The financial expert adds that women have not been adequately prepared to tackle the fine points of making ends meet. He advises a program to correct this oversight.

First, schedule a certain time for financial scrutiny. Make an appointment with yourself once or twice a month, and keep it. Select a time of day or evening when you are reasonably certain you will not be interrupted.

Train yourself to regard this financial period as a constructive session to benefit the checkbook and you.

Then, says Jensen, you can take your time and go over finances carefully. Plan ahead. Financial good health, he says, follows close attention to checkbook duties.

Ann Landers

Girl, 17, simply doesn't like to date

Dear Ann Landers: My problem might not sound important to you but it is so important to me that I've considered seeing a psychiatrist.

I am a girl, 17, attractive and a good student. I like people and people like me. But I don't have the slightest desire to date. Many fellows have asked me out and I've manufactured stupid excuses, some so transparent and clumsy that I later tried to make it up to them. I feel guilty if I hurt someone's feelings.

I don't know why I don't want to date. All my girlfriends do but I have no interest in it. Am I abnormal? If you suspect that I might be a lesbian, let me assure you I'm not. I feel no attraction to either girls OR boys.

Do you believe I should accept a few dates anyway? If you say go, I'll go.--- Alexandria

Dear A.: You remind me of the fellow who didn't like peaches. "Did you get sick from a peach once?" asked a friend. "No," was the reply. "I've never eaten one." The natural question followed, "Then how do you know you don't like them?"

My advice is to accept a few dates, even though you aren't excited about the idea. If after six months of dating you still have no interest in members of the opposite sex, get some counseling.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's sister is a widow. She makes her home with us. The woman was never a bundle of charm, but we always get along O. K.--- until recently.

Ever since the doctor told her she had diabetes she has been hell on wheels. She complains, feels sorry for herself, calls her friends and cries on the phone by the hour, and she has developed a terrible temper. The woman is nervous and depressed, afraid of everything, and behaves as if she has had a mental breakdown. Is it possible that this personality change is related to her diabetes?--- J. And T. In Peoria

Dear J. and T.: Severe diabetes can produce personality changes, especially if the person is excessively apprehensive and unwilling to make the necessary adjustment.

Talk to your sister- in- law's doctor and ask him to explain this to you. It might help if he explained it to HER, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17- year- old girl with a 40- year- old problem. My mother. She picks to pieces every guy who walks into this house. This one is too short and that one is too fat, or his hair is too long, or his mother is a tramp, or his pants are too tight in front.

Three times last month she arranged dates for me with the sons of business friends of Dad's and they were all so creepy I nearly threw up.

What burns me is that Mom doesn't even ask if I have plans for a certain evening. She goes right ahead and arranges things and then I have to go even if it means canceling something I really want to do.

I trust your judgment, Ann. Am I an ungrateful brat of a dumb kid? What are my rights? Please give me the word.--- Human Sacrifice

Dear Human: An overly ambitious mother like yours can ruin the chances of some very nice guys by trying to cram them down a daughter's throat. Your mother is being unfair to you and to the young men she fixes you up with. You hate them before they show up. Tell Mom Ann says to cool it.

What's the story on pot, L. S. D., cocaine, uppers and sowners, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Survey donations to be discussed

BENTON — The Scott County Soil and Water Conservation District will discuss donations for the standard soil survey and nominees for the supervisor election and hear reports on school poster contest entries, the soil survey and federal disaster assistance and emergency disaster programs during a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

New business to be discussed includes the formation of a ladies auxiliary, selection of landowners to receive conservation awards, district committee organizations, 1974 district budget and a meeting with state legislators.

Ridge farming saves water, fuel

Engineers call it "ridge farming" or "tri-zone tillage -- and it looks good for conserving water, saving fuel and helping farmers plant and harvest sooner.

The tillage system includes a ridge for growing crops and a zone next to it for equipment wheels to run. Between the ridges is a furrow for collecting plant residues, increasing infiltration, and disposing of runoff without erosion.

"A machine is needed to form the ridges and furrows and to reshape them each year," said Sam McKibben, University of Missouri-Columbia agricultural engineer. "We've developed an experimental machine, but none is available commercially. But we think that once the farmers find out how workable and practical this tillage method is, they'll figure out a way to do the job until industry makes the machine available."

McKibben and R. P. Beasley have been testing tri-zone tillage for three years and are convinced of its soundness.

--The ridges warm up sooner and dry out faster in spring, allowing farmers to plant earlier and seeds to germinate faster.

--The furrows slow water runoff, reduce erosion, and provide a trap to catch windblown soil.

--Water infiltration into the soil is more efficient. Soil scientists have reported that the ridge- furrow configuration is almost ideal for water infiltration. On flat cultivated fields, air is trapped below the ground because the water won't let it escape. With tri- zone tillage, the air can escape through the ridge, allowing the water to enter the ground in the furrow, efficiently reaching plant root zones.

--Either a no- till or minimum tillage procedure can be used with the ridges. Farmers can conserve fuel and keep costs low.

McKibben pointed out that good weed control is necessary to make tri- zone tillage profitable. In his tests, minimum tillage was combined with Paraquat to do the job. "We are confident that no- till will work with tri- zone," he said, "but we have not yet used it."

Fertilizer should be worked lightly into the soil to reduce losses and improve availability of nutrients, said McKibben.

To efficiently build and maintain ridges, the UMC engineers said farmers should combine initial ridging and reshaping with shredding. This would allow the soil work to be done while the residues are off the ground passing through the shredder. Shredded residues can then be discharged into the reshaped furrows behind the machine where they improve erosion control and infiltration.

Parma farmer gets big yield

PARMA — J. E. Stephens Jr., Route One, averaged 172.457 bushels per acre of harvested shelled corn on a field located one and one-fourth miles east of Vinson Store.

The field was entered in the corn- growing contest sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association but was disqualified because the field was irrigated. The corn was mechanically harvested and the yield was weighed and adjusted to 15½ per cent moisture.

To get his big yield Stephens planted the field on May 15 at the rate of 26,000 stalks to the acre. The variety was V—16 and for a preplant fertilizer application he put on 300 pounds of bulk 0-18-36 per acre. Later he side dressed with 250 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre.

Attend Farm Bureau meeting

Youths to attend meeting

COLUMBIA — Interest in man, his environment and consumerism has led to the creation of several 4-H programs. In the wake of recent trends, more and more youths are participating in these programs, such as conservation, principles of nutrition and career exploration.

According to Nelson Trickey, extension state youth specialist at the University of Missouri- Columbia, three southeast Missouri youths will be among 1,250 youths from the entire country receiving expense paid trips to the National 4-H Congress Nov. 25-29 in Chicago for competition in other 4-H events and educational awards in these and other 4-H programs.

Commodity marketing programs encourage youths to develop leadership talents, learn the basic principles of marketing while applying them to commodities sold in cash markets and traded in futures.

Consumer education is in line with the commodity program. It also aims to develop leadership abilities, build character and create understanding in consumer behavior to personal values, goals and available resources. It also teaches how social, economic and political systems affect consumers.

The conservation of natural resources program is celebrating its 20th anniversary. Its objective is to encourage 4-H youths and influence others to develop leadership talents in conservation action programs, appreciate the social and economic values of natural resources and learn appropriate scientific practices and methods in conservation.

A second conservation award goes to the Missouri 4-H'er for special work in this program area. It is in line with the natural resource program but is sponsored on the state level by E. G. Cherbonnier.

"I feel that conservation will help me to be a better citizen. It will help to teach me how to work in the democratic process. By realizing the other person's point of view, we can better strive to be beneficial to all involved," said Peter Myers Jr. of Sikeston when asked about his interest in 4-H.

Myers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Myers of 1007 Davis Blvd., Sikeston, and the 16- year- old youth has been a member of 4-H for eight years.

Myers received a National 4-H Congress educational trip to Chicago from John Deere Co., in conservation of natural resources.

Each year the Santa Fe Railroad Co. sponsors five youths who are State 4-H achievers. Three of the youths win trips on their overall records while two othes receive recognition in livestock projects and career exploration activities.

"The 4-H organization gives members continuous opportunities to express themselves. It supports a 'learn by doing' atmosphere through which individuals not only learn about themselves, but also become aware of those around them, and the world in general," said Nancy Kieffer, 18- year- old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Kieffer of Illmo, route One, when asked about 4-H.

Peter Meyers

Miss Kieffer plans to go into personnel management after completion of studies at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, where she is a freshman. She is an over- all achievement winner.

Several youths won in areas which objectives are to learn the principles of nutrition as they relate to good health, physical fitness and attractive appearance at all stages in life.

Winners come from the bread, dairy foods, food nutrition and food preservation activity areas and are competing for a total of 249 educational and college scholarships valued at $172,400.

Carol Jean Weber, 18, Box 27, Kelso, knows she can integrate what she has learned from the food nutrition project in later life. She says, "My 4-H foods project will not only help me in later life, but in my present life and to enjoy a longer life. By this I mean that I have learned the importance of the daily food guide, the principles of good nutrition and the economic and nutritional advantages of food preservation and preparation."

Miss Weber is a freshman at Southeast Missouri State University majoring in vocational home economics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Weber Sr. and a member of the Willing Workers club.

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Transit Commission is studying a proposal to use subway trains to move goods as well as people. In off-peak hours, suggests TTC Commissioner Crawford Smyth, container goods could be loaded at any subway terminal for speedy delivery in the city.

Market activity picks up

HAYTI — Activity picked up slightly on local Missouri cotton markets last week according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Hayti Classing Office. Demand strengthened and prices were steady to firm. Buyers were active in the market seeking all qualities of cotton not committed to contracts.

Most farmers offered the small volume of uncommitted cotton freely and sold grade 31 staple 34 cotton at prices of 63 to 64 cents a pound. Grade 41 staple 34 brought from 61 to 62 cents per pound and grade 51 staple 34 sold for 58 to 60 cents per pound.

Farmers continued to deliver the majority of recent ginnings on previously made contracts. Ginyard prices for cottonseed were unchanged and ranged from $90 to $100 per ton at the various gin locations.

The harvest was delayed temporarily by intermittent showers during the week, but farmers were able to pick considerable cotton at most locations nevertheless.

The Agricultural Marketing Service's Hayti office classed 28,000 samples for farmers last week. Total classings for the season through Nov. 2 was 102,000. Quality of the samples classed improved slightly from the previous week.

Grade 41 accounted for the highest percentage of classings at 63 per cent, about unchanged from a week earlier. Grade 31 was the next highest at 13 per cent, against 11 per cent the previous week. Staple length averaged slightly longer last week with 78 per cent stapling 34, compared with 85 per cent the week before and 20 per cent with lengths of 35 up from 13 per cent a week earlier.

Ninety- three per cent of the samples miked in the base range of 3.5 to 4.9 with only 5 per cent in the 5.0 and higher range last week. Breaking strength was good and averaged 84,000 pounds per square inch on the samples tested.

Once a barren sink basin, the blue 450-square-mile Salton Sea in Southern California's Imperial Valley was filled with waters that flowed through a break in a Colorado River levee 68 years ago.

Sides scores again

Jackson's all-state running back, Loren Sides, (21) hauls in a pass for the final score of the game Friday night at Public School Stadium as the Indians rallied for 21 points in the fourth quarter to topple the Bulldogs, 21-7.

Defense shines

Poplar Bluff's defense played a key role in the Mules 22-16 victory over the Charleston Blue Jays Friday night. Here, the Mules defense contains the CHS scoring star, J. J. Black.

Indians rally

Jackson's all- state running back, Loren Sides, broke loose in the fourth quarter at Public School Stadium Friday night to spark the Jackson Indians to a 21- 7 victory over the Sikeston Bulldogs.

It was the same old story for the SHS gridders, who have won only one game this season, as the Indians defense finally wore down the courageous SHS defensive unit and marched in for the victory with a big fourth quarter outburst.

SHS's offensive unit sputtered throughout the game, passing up a pair of scoring chances when penalities shoved them back early in the game.

What has been said before about the Sikeston Bulldog's football team was the dominating factor last night. The defense once again held the Bulldogs close until the fourth quarter when Loren Sides could be contained no longer. Sides exploded for 63 yards in the fourth quarter along with two touchdowns.

The first half of the game was a see- saw battle with the ball changing hands numerous times and with neither team being able to mount a scoring drive. The only sustained drive that either team could put together was the possession of the Bulldogs. The Bulldogs drove from their 32 yard line to the 32 yard line of the Indians before they were stalled and forced to attempt a 50 yard field goal.

The second half started much the same way the first did with both teams being unable to score a touchdown. Late in the third quarter the Bulldogs took control of the ball on Jackson's 37 yard line. Colwick started the drive with a two yard carry followed by two incomplete passes one by Blankenship to Love and one from Waters to Eisenbach. On a fourth down and eight yard situation, Blankenship passed to Colwick for a 24 yard gain and a first down. From the 11 yard line Colwick moved the ball to the nine, Tom DeRoush picked up three more to the six and Blankenship ran into the endzone for the touchdown. Ron Friday booted the extra point and Sikeston had a 7- 0 lead going into the fourth quarter.

On Jackson's first possession of the fourth period, Mark Jones mixed up the ball possssions with Loren Sides, Darrell Sides, and himself carrying the ball. The Sides picked up much of the yardage with Loren scoring on a five yard run. Mark Jones kept the ball and scored the two point conversion. After a Sikeston first down and a Jackson penalty the Bulldogs were forced to punt and the wind was the deciding factor. Colwick's punt was downed on the Jackson 46 yard line--- two yards from the original line of scrimmage. Jackson then drove 54 yards in six plays wity Loren Sides scoring on a twelve yard run.

Sikeston started to come back late in the fourth quarter when Blankenship hit Breg Colwick for a 10 yard pass again. The three successive downs produced a ten yard loss and on fourth down Blankenship was rushed hard and threw the ball into Dennis Koch's hands for an interception. The Indians took control of the ball on the 19 yard line and from there Darrel and Loren Sides teamed up to score the touchdown on two plays. Rob Litz kicked the extra point and the Indians went on to a 21- 7 victory.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Carnesecca is returning this fall as basketball coach at St. John's University in Jamaica, N.Y. Carnesecca coached the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association the past three years. Before that he coached St. John's following the retirement of the late Joe Lapchick.

The Redmen open their home season against Davidson on Dec. 11. They open the season in the Clemson tournament in South Carolina on Nov. 30. They also are listed to play in the Connecticut tournament at New Haven on Dec. 21-22 and in the ECAC holiday festival in Madison Square Garden starting Dec. 26.

The longest prison sentence on record was given to two confidence men in Iran in 1960. Together they were sentenced to 7,109 years in jail.

Bearcats claim title

DEXTER — Coach Clyde Vaughn's DHS Bearcats stormed to the schools third straight Southern Division league title Friday night behind its 41-0 romp of the Chaffee Red Devils.

Jay Lemons started the scoring off with a four yard run for a TD and Don Backfish kicked the extra point. Darrell Pyle scored next on a 14 yard pass play from Backfish, who added the extra point.

Mike Cooksey sprinted three yards to start the second quarter and Backfish made the score 21-0 with his extra point boot. Lemons scored on a 10 yard run as Backfish rounded out the first half scoring with his extra point boot.

Backfish teamed with Greg Miller, his favorite receiver, for a 40 yard score in the third and kicked the extra point for a 35-0 advantage. Chris Bryant completed the scoring for the Bearcats with a one yard plunge late in the game.

Indians collar Dogs

HAYTI— Coach Jerry Cecil's HHS Indians shutout the Gideon Bulldogs 19- 0 here Friday night.

The Indians jumped on the scoreboard early in the first quarter on a four yard run by Eddie Martin and the kick following was missed.

The next touchdown came in the third quarter when Bradley Luce plunged one yard and again the kick following was missed.

The Fourth Quarter saw Danny White plunge for two yards and the third Hayti touchdown, following this kick was good by Mark Cartee.

Zalma wins cage opener

MARQUAND--- Zalma claimed a pair of victories here Tuesday night as it took part in officially opening the Southeast Missouri basketball season. Zalma's B- team scored a 56- 43 win and the varsity followed with a 73- 70 win.

Mickey West led the winners scoring attack with 21 points. Kerry Mondy and David Kirkpatrick contributed 18 and 17 markers respectively.

Marquand's Mike Masters led all scorers on the night with a 36 point effort. C. J. Reimler added 17 to the Tigers total.

Mules kick Jays

CHARLESTON-- Coach Joe Black's high flying CHS Blue Jay football team suffered their first defeat of the season Friday night at the hands of the Poplar Bluff Mules, 22- 16.

The victory lifted the PBHS gridders into at least a share of the Northern Division league crown and gave them a chance to wrap up the championship next week when they face the Sikeston Bulldogs.

Poplar Bluff became the first team to crack the Blue Jay defensive unit this season for a score and did it at the key point in its season as both teams were battling for the inside hold on the league race.

Poplar Bluff completely stopped the area's top scorer, J.J. Black, holding the fleet back to 45 yards rushing in eleven carries.

The Bluejays struck quick against the Mules as quarterback Junior Delay raced 47 yards for a TD on the third play from scrimmage with 10:42 left in the first period. Kent Sutherland scored two points and the home team led 8- 0.

The lead was short lived as the Mules penetrated the once invincible Charleston defense for a touchdown and two point conversion to tie the score 8- 8 and before the half came to a close the Mules had crossed the Bluejay goal for another six points and led 14- 8.

The Mules defense had completely shut off the Bluejay attack. Poplar added eight more points in the third period and held off a Bluejay attack late in the final period as Delay hit Charlie Glenn with a pass in the endzone to make the final score 22- 16.

Charleston has the ball and was trying to come back as time ran out. The Bluejays take on powerful Cape Central next Thursday night and must win to stay in the conference race as Poplar Bluff travels to Sikeston Friday night.

Cape romps

KENNETT — The Cape Central Tigers continued to win, romping to a 56-0 victory over the KHS Indians here last night. The Tigers scored 14 points in each of the four quarters.

Tim Vickery scored first on a six yard run with Jeff Hutton booting the extra point. Steve C. Taylor scored the second touchdown of the period when he raced 36 yards for the score and Hutton kicked the fourteenth point.

In the second period, Tim Vickery scored his second and third touchdowns of the evening. Vickery broke loose early in the period for a 24 yard romp and later he broke away for a 61 yard run. Hutton kicked the extra points.

The second half saw Steve C. Taylor score on a seven yard run with Hutton booting his fifth point of the game. Rick Webb came into the game and scored from 20 yards out. Hutton added the extra point for a 42-0 third quarter score.

With reserves working the fourth quarter, Chris Stiegemeyer scored from the four yard line and later he broke away for a 61 yard run. Hutton kicked the extra points.

The second half saw Steve C. Taylor score on a seven yard run with Hutton booting his fifth point of the game. Rick Webb came into the game and scored from 20 yards out. Hutton added the extra point for a 42-0 third quarter score.

With reserves working the fourth quarter, Chris Stiegemeyer scored from the four yard line and later from 34 yards out. Jeff Hutton kicked the extra point following Stiegemeyer's first touchdown and Bob Gessert booted the final point of the game.

Davis stars

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fullback Annise Davis of East Prairie, Mo., and tailback Jornel Williams led the Missouri Freshman football team to a 50-28 victory over the Kansas State Freshmen Friday.

Davis gained 128 yards in 10 carries, scoring a touchdown on an 84-yard run. Williams had two touchdowns and 91 yards.

K-State fumbles set up two early Missouri touchdowns. The Tigers led 27-7 just before halftime, but in the next 49 seconds Missouri scored once and Kansas State twice. The halftime score was 33-21.

Bard's FG tops MHS

EAST PRAIRIE--- Coach Ed Nichols East Prairie Eagles blanked the Malden Greenwaves 3- 0, in a South Conference battle Friday night.

In the First Quarter the Green Waves drove deep into Eagle territory to the five yard line and the Eagles held tough.

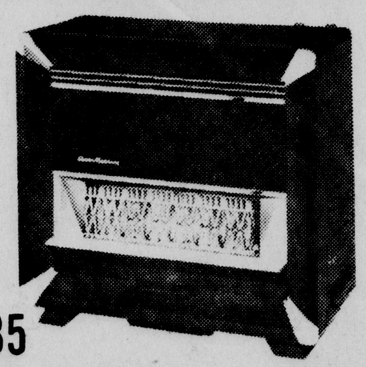

The only scoring of the game came with six seconds left in the first half on a 47 yard field goal by Tim Bard.

The only other scoring threat came in the Fourth Quarter when Malden Quarterback, Nick Arnold led the Green Waves into E. P.'s 15 yard line, and was then intercepted by the Eagle's Steve Husk.

East Prairie is now 3- 2 in the South Conference and Malden is 1- 4 receiving their only win by defeating the Chaffee Red Devils last week.

FLOWERY BRANCH, Ga. — Rick Cline of Gainesville, Fla., drove his Triumph to an easy victory and defended his G Production championship, which determines the best road course driver in America, during the Road Racing Classic at Road Atlanta.

Season opener

Season opened

BELL CITY — The Advance Hornets and the host Cubs junior varsity basketball teams tipped off the 1973-74 high school season here Friday night in the annual B team tournament with the Hornets of coach Carroll Cookson coming out on top 50-39. In the second game of the night, Cookson's brother, (Ronnie) put his Braves up against coach Danny Kight's Bobcats with the Braves triumphant 56-34.

In the opening game of the night Coach Ronnie Stone's Bell City Cubs battled the Hornets from the tip off until the first two minutes of the fourth period when Advance broke the Cub press for a couple easy buckets and pulled away.

Bell City jumped out on top of the cold shooting Hornets 8-2 before Advance finally found their shooting range and finally pulled ahead 20-19 at the intermission.

The Hornets had trouble for three quarters with their ball handling and Bell City, behind the shooting of Leonard Gross and Scott Weeks with 15 and 11 points respectively, stayed close.

Advance kept the Cubs at a disadvantage with Hill popping in 18 points to take individual scoring honors for the game. The Hornets hit 19 field goals to 13 for Bell City.

The Scott Central Braves used a fast moving offense and a pressure defense to rattle the Delta Bobcats. Both teams started cold from the field in the first quarter with the Bobcats leading 9-8. The junior Braves used good rebounding and a fast break to leave the Bobcats behind in thesecond period, scoring 24 points to only four for Delta and a 24-4 halftime lead.

The scoring slowed somewhat in the third and fourth periods as the Braves hit 12 in each of the two periods and Delta scored 10 in the third and 11 in the fourth.

Scott Central pumped in 28 shots from the field to 15 for the Bobcats. Delta hit four free tosses while the Braves didn't shoot a single shot from the charity stripe.

Saturday night the Bloomfield Wildcats play the Puxico Indians and Oran tangles with Kelly in the second night of first round action. Semi-finals start at 6:30 Monday and the finals are at 6:30 and 8:00 Wednesday night. Scoring:

Rams claim 17th

ILLMO - SCOTT CITY — Coach Bill Wilthongs Rams won their 17th game in a row whipping a hapless Cairo, Ill., eleven 28-0 Friday night.

ISC used a hardnose defense and big burst of offense to put the game away at the half. Coach Wilthong used his reserves for the second half of play.

The Rams started the scoring after Cairo was stopped after the opening kickoff. ISC used a sustained march of 70 yards, climaxed by a one yard plunge by Ralph Heisserer for the touchdown. Richard Springs kicked his first of four extra points and ISC led 7-0.

Randy Bohn climaxed another drive in the first period with a one yard plunge into the endzone and Springs added the point for a 14-0 lead.

Cairo was unable to stop the Rams in the second period as Steve Wadlington hit paydirt with a four yard dash. Heisserer scored his second TD of the game on a four yard dash and the scoring was finished for the night.

Scott Wright was the leading ball carrier for the Rams with 43 yards in eight carries. Randy Bohn was second with 39 yards in seven carries. Richard Baker hit two for two passes for 46 yards. The Rams had a total of 172 yards rushing.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Nov. 3, the 307th day of 1973. There are 58 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal was given a vote of confidence at the polls. Republican candidate Alf Landon carried only Maine and Vermont.

Also, on this date:

In 561, Julian became emperor of Rome on the death of Emperor Constantine.

In 1796, John Adams was elected the second President of the United States.

In 1868, the Republican candidate for president, Gen. Ulysses Grant, was elected over Horatio Seymour.

In 1883, the world Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized at a national convention in Chicago.

In 1903, the Republic of Panama was proclaimed.

Homemade gasoline out of cow manure gasoline

RED KEY, Ind. (AP) — What you scrape off your shoes today may be the answer to the energy crisis tomorrow, claims an east central Indiana farmer.

Richard Shuttleworth, of rural Red Key, uses ordinary cow manure, plentiful and free on his 144-acre cattle farm, to power most of his domestic energy needs.

Shuttlesworth and his son John have constructed what they call an "anerobic digester" that can convert meadow muffins, road apples or buffalo chips into usable methane fuel.

Using a garden hose, Shuttlesworth hooked up his contraption here Friday and operated an automobile engine for a group of newsmen.

"It provides enough power to run gas lights, heat a house or dry grain," Shuttlesworth said.

The homemade gasoline is produced by dumping waste and water in the machine and vacuum-sealing the unit, which then uses bacteria to break down the manure into gaseous matter. It also makes a nitrogen-rich fertilizer.

The manure and water is allowed to stand. As it does, the gas rises to the top of the tank, where it is siphoned off, for use directly as it comes from the generator or it can be stored in presurized tanks.

The system represents an investment of $15,000, but Shuttlesworth said anyone with a 55-gallon metal drum and some spare time could make one for less than $2,000.

His son, John, editor of an ecology magazine, said the basic idea behind the digester might someday enable an apartment building to be heated by its residents' wastes.

The elder Shuttlesworth started building the digester last July with the assistance of L. John Fry, who designed one that processed enough gas from the waste of his hog herd to power his South African farm.

Although the digester cannot be labelled foolproof, Shuttlesworth has learned much from the operation at his farm. For instance, he has found the unit operates best at a temperature of 95 degrees.

John Shuttlesworth said he plans to build a larger digester at the headquarters of his magazine, the Mother Earth News, in North Carolina that will be heated by the sun's rays and stirred by the wind.

Manufacturers have expressed interest in the system and the Shuttlesworths predict a commercial model for home use may be ready in a few months.

While the system is not powerful enough to revolutionize the auto industry, Shuttlesworth said, "A perfect system could be developed very rapidly by the right people in this day of high technology, but I think they will have to feel the energy pinch more acutely before they begin to move fast."

record one for expenses. However, there was some net gain.

The Agriculture Department reports gross income at $68.9 billion, an increase of $9.2 billion over the prior year.

Production expenses rose in the same period to $49.2 billion, which was $4.7 billion above 1971. As a result, net farm income went up $4.5 billion in the past year.

All signs point to a much bigger improvement in the current year.

Efforts next will be directed toward helping each community prepare itself for industry.

"The very minimum we try to provide a prospect before his visit to a community is a site sketch, arial photos and topographic map coverage," he said. "Many communities are still lacking in this basic data which most industrialists require before they will visit the site in person," he added.

Also discussed at the meeting were methods of funding for the six county industrial development effort. Philip Shelton, executive director of the BIDC said a proposal for funding of $8,000 has been sent to the Ozark Regional Planning Commission.

Bluff man shot by state trooper

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP)—A 37-year-old Poplar Bluff man was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Community Hospital with gunshot wounds suffered at the hands of a state trooper.

Highway Patrol authorities in Kirkwood said James R. Russell of rural Poplar Bluff was shot twice Friday night near here after stopped in a stolen vehicle.

Russell, according to the patrol, left a tavern in a stolen pickup truck and was minutes later stopped by trooper Dale Crites.

The patrol said Russell flourished a pistol which he pointed at the officer and was in return shot in the right side and abdomen.

Warrants were expected to be sworn out charging Russell with the theft of the vehicle from neighboring St. Francois County, the patrol said.

Harper receives electrical burns

DEXTER-- A Bloomfield man received electrical burns Friday while wiring a house for Missouri Utilities north of Dexter, according to the Stoddard County sheriff's department.

Don Harper said today that he suffered burns to his left leg and right forefinger when he accidentally touched a hot wire. He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital. Harper said he expects to be dismissed today.

TELLY SAVALAS: ASKED AND ANSWERED HIS OWN QUESTION

Choice acting plum that it is, the part of Lt. Theo Kojak was still given a lot of thought by Telly Savalas before he agreed to accept the starring role in the new series "Kojak," broadcast Wednesdays (9:00- 10:00 PM CST) on the CBS Television Network.

Savals first wondered, "Does the world need another television cop show?" He thought it did not-- until confronted with the role of Kojak, which he first played on "The Marcus- Nelson Murders" on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies." Both Savalas and the movie received 1972- 73 Emmy nominations.

"There are a lot of reasons why I agreed to re- create the character in a series," Savalas says. "I like the character, and I have a great deal of regard for the creative team behind the series.

"Kojak is a New York City cop who grew up among the people. He cares about them. And sometimes he is fooled by them, which makes him a real person. He can be tough when it's necessary, but he also knows when to look the other way."

Although the series will be based in Hollywood, it will use actual New York City locations as much as possible, to provide the realism the series demands, Savalas notes.

"I think this series will also show the American public just how tough a job policemen have in this country," he continues. "Each and every day they expose themselves to all kinds of danger, while still being the target of criticism."

Another factor in Savalas' decision to do the series was the people behind "Kojak." Academy Award-winner Abby Mann, the series' executive producer, won an Emmy for his script of "The Marcus- Nelson Murders." Matthew Rapf, the supervising producer, previously was the producer of "Slattery's People," "Ben Casey" and "Longstreet." James McAdams, the producer, previously produced "The Virginian," "A Road West" and "Ironside."

"That's enough talent to make any actor confident," says Savalas.

'LOVE STORY'

Wednesdays, NBC Television Network
(In Color, 9- 10 p.m.)

"Love Story," an anthology series of romantic tales in the traditional genre, will premiere this Fall on the NBC Television Network.

Following the concept of great romantic novels, stories and motion pictures, each presentation of the series will focus on the start, the problems and the resolution of a romance. Typifying such traditional romantic themes is the film, "Love Story," from which both the series title and its theme song are derived.

There will be a different cast of guest stars each week for "Love Story" and the varied plots of the full- hour telecasts may range from modern day romance in a big-city apartment to some of literature's more memorable romantic stories.

A SUPPLEMENT TO THE OXFORD ENGLISH DICTIONARY. Edited by R.W. Burchfield. Volume I, A-G. Oxford University Press. 1,331 Pages. $50.

"The Oxford English Dictionary" is undoubtedly the greatest lexicon ever compiled in the language, probably in any language, and a comprehensive supplement to it is bound to be a major publishing event.

The basic dictionary was conceived in 1858, at the high noon of Victorianism, and the great scholars who carried out the conception had to be influenced in some degree by that golden era with its sometimes stifling mores. When the work was completed in 1928, it had employed 12 volumes and the dedicated care of four chief editors. A 13th-volume supplement was added in 1933 in an effort to bring the work up to date. The present supplement, which will extend to two more volumes over the next six years, replaces the earlier one of more than a generation ago.

The new supplement is as much a child of our time as the mother work was of Victorian and Edwardian provenance. But, disregarding any preference or prejudice for the inclusion of words from which the first editors politely turned away, no diminution of scholarship is apparent. The basic format prevails: the evolution of words is traced to the present, with fascinating quotations to support the progressive — or regressive — definitions.

Yes, the four-letter words which the Victorian editors knew but shunned in print are there, at least the most significant ones, from A through G, and indubitably the others will follow in the subsequent volumes. But also vou find the words of modern technology and science: aureomycin, cobalt bomb, computer, complex. plus some more encyclopedic than lexicographical, such as Guarnerius, for the famous Italian violin maker.

Also, much more attention is paid to the themes with variations on the mother tongue played in America and the English-speaking dominions — Australia, Canada, etc. Perhaps the fact that the new editor, R.W. Burchfield, is a New Zealander now a fellow at St. Peter's College, Oxford, may have contributed subtly to this approach. The present editors are very appreciative of the imaginative insights of H.L. Mencken in "The American Language," as the editors of the previous supplement were not. And quotations from such as Henry Miller, D.H. Lawrence and Philip Roth to illustrate the raunchier nuances would make the earlier editors open their eyes wide — then blink. Incidentally, some of those shadier words centuries ago were cleaner, almost clinical.

It cannot be stressed too much that this latest work is a supplement, not a complete dictionary. Prudently it was brought out a year after "The Compact Edition of the Oxford English Dictionary," in small print requiring a magnifying glass, which reduced the original 13 volumes to two and the cost from $300 to $75.

BURT REYNOLDS LATE SHOW– "Burt Reynolds in London": Reynolds is joined in London by guests Michael Caine, Edward Fox, Roger Moore and Ryan O'Neal, who talk about love, women's lib, publicity, critics and bad movies. (Color)

Guests Michael Caine, Edward Fox, Roger Moore, and Ryan O'Neal join "Burt Reynolds In London," where they talk about love, women's lib, publicity, critics and bad movies, on "The Burt Reynolds Late Show," to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Saturday, Nov. 10 (10:30 PM to 12:00 CST). In some cities, the show will be presented Sunday, Oct. 14 at the same time.

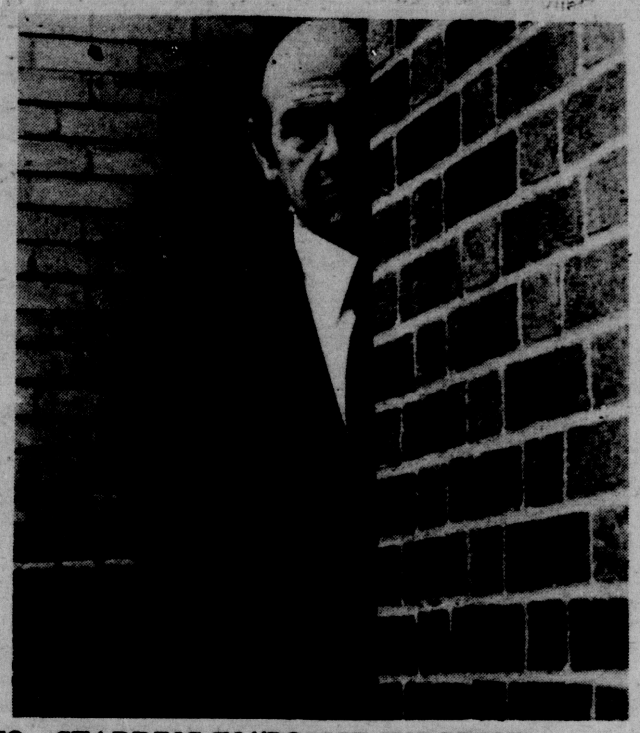

This is the second of six different 90- minute special event entertainment shows starring Reynolds, being colorcast approximately once a month (preempting "The Weekend Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson").

"It's like the boys' night out," said Reynolds, describing this show.

Though "bad pictures" is among the topics discussed, Reynolds's guest stars are known for a number of outstanding films and performances.

Caine received the Best Actor nomination (together with co- star Laurence Olivier) for "Sleuth" and starred in "The Ipcress File." Fox starred in "The Day of the Jackal," and Moore, known for his TV series, "The Saint," has become the newest James Bond in "Live and Let Die."

CO— STARRING IN "POLICE SURGEON"

Larry Mann co- stars as Lieutenant Jack Gordon in "Police Surgeon," the double- action adventure series spotlighting a young physician on a big city police force. As the supervisor of Police Surgeon Locke (played by star Sam Groom), he shares the challenge of the most dangerous cases on the police log. "Police Surgeon" is seen Saturdays at 6:00 P.M. on WDXR- TV

Efforts to save fuel increased

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Increasingly wintry weather and developments in the international oil situation are prompting more efforts to conserve fuel in the United States.

Canada complicated the U. S. oil problem Friday by increasing its tax on crude oil exports from 40 cents a barrel to $1.90 a barrel.

Bearing the brunt of the tax hike will be the Canadian border areas of the Midwest and Far West, which consume the bulk of the one million gallons of Canadian oil used daily in the U. S.

The effect of the ban on oil shipments to the United States imposed by nine Arab nations is worse than first thought, federal officials said as they promised to use immediately an emergency plan to combat fuel shortages.

"The crisis is much worse than all of us anticipated a week ago," said Chairman Henry A. Jackson of the Senate Interior Committee.

He added that he had reached agreement with White House energy advisor John A. Love on a decision to implement the emergency plan after he found the Arab cutback on oil shipments would result in a daily loss of 3.3 million barrels of oil, not 1.2 million barrels as originally estimated.

On Monday, foreign ministers representing the nine European Common Market countries open two-day discussions on the situation that will include scrutiny of the Arabs' cut off of oil to the Netherlands, a market member.

The Arabs have accused the Dutch of coupling a friendliness for the Israelis with a decision to serve as a transfer point for Israel-bound U. S. arms shipments.

West Germany and other European oil consumers rely heavily on a pipeline that uses Rotterdam as a terminal.

The first in an expected series of cutbacks in crude oil shipments to Japan was announced by Shell International of Britain. Shell announced a 10 per cent reduction in deliveries and a 17 per cent price hike on oil destined for Japan, which receives 80 per cent of its oil from the Middle East.

In the United States, the Senate Commerce Committee approved a bill Friday requiring manufacturers to indicate estimated operating costs of heating and cooking appliances on labels.

Vermont started planning the use of voluntary daylight saving time that would provide an extra hour of daylight in the evening and one less hour of peak heating- fuel consumption.

A new state office of emergency service assistance in Wisconsin plans to organize fuel inventories and distribute surpluses to needy areas.

An Indiana official said the fuel shortage and poor distribution system could close plants and put Hoosiers out of work.

Hawaii's major supplier of gasoline, Standard Oil Co. of California, now limits its retail gasoline outlets to purchasing only 95 per cent of the volume they bought last November.

The shortage also is affecting public transportation. A cutback in bus fuel by Cleveland and Memphis suppliers will lead to reductions in service in those cities, public transit officials say.

Overdrying is costly

Overdrying soybeans can be costly because the water in the bean is worth money when the farmer sells it. When the moisture level in a bushel of soybeans drops from 13 per cent to 10 per cent, nearly two pounds of water are removed. At $6 a bushel, the loss is 20 cents. Drying beyond the safe moisture level also takes longer and consumes more fuel and electricity. (Daily Standard photo by Ron Porter)

Johnson faces charges

CHARLESTON-- Felony charges of breaking, entering and stealing were filed Friday afternoon against Larry Johnson, 24, and Ronnie Lane, 22, of East Prairie in connection with a Thursday break- in at the Melvin Guinn home near East Prairie, according to Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons.

The two were arrested Friday in East Prairie by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivy after the sheriff's department was notified by an unidentified person that he had purchased the stolen articles which included a portable color television set, stereo combination and five speakers from the two men.

Lane and Johnson are in the Mississippi County jail and bond was set at $10,000 each.

Scott farm income tops $25 million; expenses up

Although farming and ranching have not been the most lucrative of occupations in recent years, Scott County's agricultural community has been making out better than most, it appears.

The majority of local farmers held their own last year and a number of them, especially those with well-equipped, commercial- size setups, ended up well ahead of the previous year.

Credit for it is attributed to record output, made possible by generally favorable weather conditions, by greater mechanization and by more intensive use of fertilizers and pesticides.

Gains were made in nearly every section of the country. The Northeast, which was hit by heavy and continuous rains, was an exception.

The facts and figures, showing how local growers fared in relations to others, are contained in a survey released by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

It reports total receipts in Scott County from farm operations in the past year at $28,588,000. Two years ago, when it made a similar survey, it listed the total at $23,592,000.

That was the gross amount, before deductions for operating costs and taxes.

Included in it are the cash receipts from the sale of farm goods, together with government payments and income in kind, which is the value of products grown and consumed on the farm.

The increase, 21.2 percent, compares with a 16.7 percent rise in the United States and with 19.7 percent in the West North Central States.

According to the most recent figures from the Department of Agriculture, approximately 60 percent of the total received locally from the sale of farm products came from the marketings of crops and 40 percent from livestock, poultry and dairy goods.

Although the past year was a big one for the American farmer in terms of gross income, it was also a

1,600 new jobs created in area

Over 1,600 new manufacturing jobs have been created since the Industrial development office of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission was opened in September 1972, according to industrial development specialist Bill Wellborn.

Wellborn spoke to a regional industrial development meeting Thursday in Sikeston at which Marion Waggoner of Charleston was elected to head the Bootheel Industrial Planning Commission for the coming year. He replaces Percy Clippard of Dexter.

He said the jobs have created over $9 million in new manufacturing income during the year.

Wellborn said the BIDC staff had worked with several prospects during the past month which have expressed an interest in locating in the Bootheel. They include two metal fabricating companies, an aircraft manufacturer, a steel fence- wire manufacturer, a steel pipe and tube company and a brewing company.

Next year's efforts he said, will include expansion of direct mail campaign

Thieves enter Martin house

James Martin, Route Two, told police Friday that someone had entered his home between 5:30 a.m. and 4:35 p.m. Thursday and stole items valued at $229.

Taken were a .30- .30 caliber rifle with scope valued at $130, a belt sander valued at $25; a drill worth $25 and a power saw worth $49.

Police said entry was gained by breaking out a window.

Firemen called twice Friday

Firemen answered two fire calls Friday night, one to a trash fire and the other on a false alarm.

At 6:08 p.m. they were called to extinguish a trash fire behind Nunnelee Funeral Chapel, 205 N. Stoddard.

At 8:06 p.m. they were called to the new Barkett's Big Star Market under construction at Midtowner Village Shopping Center on a false alarm.

Agriculture has a large impact on local economy

Agriculture has a greater impact on the lives and economy of Sikeston residents than most people realize, says Ken Walters, newly named chairman of the Sikeston Jaycee Outstanding Young Farmer Committee.

Scott Matthews of Sikeston is co- chairman of the event.

Walters will coordinate the Jaycee program which recognizes the importance of agriculture to the local economy and honors Sikeston's outstanding young farmer.

This is the 17th year the Jaycees have conducted a national OYF Program. Co-sponsoring the local program is Sonny Presley Chevrolet and Coffey's TV and Appliance.

Agriculture, Walters says, continues to contribute a large share of the total economic progress and wealth.

Farmers are receiving higher prices for their crops and livestock today but, at the same time, their operating costs are climbing at an ever increasing rate, he said.

"During this time of food shortages, the American farmer will, as he has before, do his best to increase the quality and quantity of food for home use and abroad," Walters added.

The Jaycees, under the direction of Walters and Matthews, will interview farmers between the ages of 18 and 35. From their reports a panel of judges will select the winner. The winner will be announced Nov. 20 at the Farmers Appreciation Banquet at Ramada Inn. Banquet tickets are being sold now by Sikeston civic clubs.

Local winners will compete in the state finals in January, and the state winner will progress to the national award program at a later date.

Splat! Contest was egg-citing

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP) — Two brothers have gone down in the record books Friday for their efforts in a contest in this southeast Missouri community, but it's doubtful that many will scramble to laud their success.

Dave and Jim Johnson emerged from a splattered street in the Farmington business district Friday to claim the national egg-throwing record after successfully throwing a raw egg 192 feet, 9 inches and catching it in tact. a spokesman for the sponsoring Farmington Parks and Recreation Department said the throw broke an American record of 189 feet.

The Johnsons' record-setting egg was among only seven of 132 eggs thrown by 11 teams taking part in the contest. The remains of the others covered the pavement.

An official of the egg-hurling event said the contest will become an annual affair, accepting challengers from anywhere in the country.

4 injured in accidents

Two traffic accidents in the Bootheel area Friday and early today resulted in injuries to four persons, according to the highway patrol.

Donald B. Sexton, 21, of Poplar Bluff received a serious head injury at 9:50 p.m. Friday 11 miles south of Poplar Bluff when his wrecker struck a car on Highway 160.

The accident occurred after a car driven by Roy Henderson, 62, of Doniphan had struck a bridge abutment and turned sideways in the road. The wrecker then struck the car in the side, and the vehicle being towed by the wrecker was jolted loose by the impact.

Sexton was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Three persons were injured in an accident at 5:15 a.m. today on Highway 142 eight miles south of Poplar Bluff.

The accident occurred when a southbound car driven by Freddie Williams, 32, of Neelyville swerved into the northbound lane and was struck in the right side by a northbound car driven by Wayne Dollins, 30, of Nellyville.

Williams received bruises and Joyce Williams, 24, a passenger, suffered cuts and bruises. Dollins sustained head cuts and a neck injury. All three were taken to Doctors Hospital.

Commenting on a poll of consumers by the American Farm Bureau Federation, Mrs. Haven Smith, chairman of the AFB Women's Committee, observes: "... the most interesting findings of this year's survey is the widespread acceptance -- by 86 per cent of the respondents -- of the idea that government should cut its spending. This solution to the problem of inflation was favored by a higher percentage of the people than any other proposed solution, including holding down union demands for higher wages or limiting profits of the food distribution industry or of farmers."

If the sentiments of consumers are accurately reflected in this survey and if they will support those elected officials at federal, state and local levels of government who are courageous enough to reject higher tax spending proposals, inflation can be controlled and respect for the dollar restored. As Mr. Smith adds, "The alternatives are further inflation, more price controls, food shortages, rationing, and black markets."

A BURNING QUESTION

It's an ill wind, etc.

The government's decision to clamp controls on the distribution of propane gas, to be allowed by rationing of heating oil, together with predictions of severe fuel shortages anyway if it's a hard winter, have caused a boom in sales of oldtime wood-burning stoves.

"It's unbelieveable," says a spokesman for one large manufacturer, who says he already has more orders on file than he can possibly fill. Ben Franklin's fireplace, which alwasy was an efficient heater but has been considered mostly a decorator item for lo, these many years, is also enjoying a comeback.

The phenomenon raises the question, of course, of where everybody is going to get the wood to burn in all these stoves, not to mention the effects on air pollution.

But one problem at a time please.

YES, YOU CAN CURE POLLUTION, IF

— You do away with most trucks and locomotives (how you get enough food to your stores is then your worry).

— You accept cleaner but far less powerful gasoline and therefore a slower, less powerful car.

— Wear clothes that aren't so glistening white (because detergents would have to be weaker).

— Pay higher taxes so your city can modernize waste disposal.

— Even go back to swatting flies by hand (modern fly killers contain poison of course).

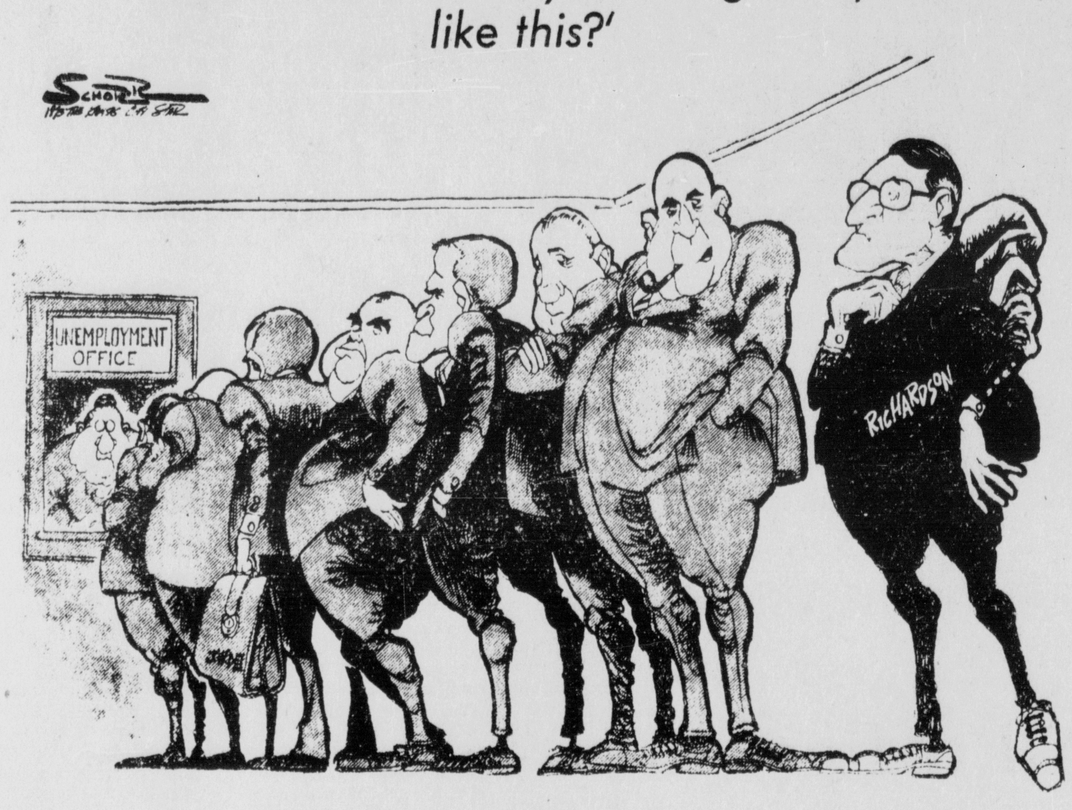

— Stop all airplane and bus travel.

— Have fewer people (many cities and even towns are so large they simply can not take care of their wastes).

Pollution — cause and cure — is everybody's business. Industry is doing yeomen service, spending millions of dollars to reduce and wherever possible stop pollution. But the greatest causes are people and their possessions, and until people are willing to pay the price, pollution and its terrible toll will continue.

A DANGEROUS DECISION

We are pleased that southeast Missouri's member of the State Highway Commission, Albert C. Riley of New Madrid, voted the right way on the issue of 14- foot mobile homes using state roads.

Commissioner Riley was one of two members of the six-member commission — Wm. R. Logan of Silex was the other — who voted against allowing monster trailes on highways.

The other four members went against the recommendations of the chief highway engineer, Robert N. Hunter and the professional highway staff and also snubbed the state Legislature by agreeing to allow the behemoths to traverse most state roads.

The four members who approved this measure are Jack Curtis of Springfield, commission chairman; Roger R. Linsin of St. Louis, Daniel Duncan of St. Joseph and Lynn Bauer of Kansas City.

Take another look at what the commission did:

Evidently realizing their action would cause protests across the state, they took the action in September, but made no public announcement. The commission's action became known only two weeks ago.

Take another look at the commission's decision:

It was done despite the fact the Legislature withdrew in the 1971 session a bill which would have accomplished the same thing. The Legislature took the measure off the calendar because of public protest.

In effect, the commission has done by decree what the Legislature would not do by law because the public did not want it.

Under the regulation, which will be for a one- year trial period, 14- foot- wide mobile homes will be allowed to move between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on 12 - foot highways lanes. Traffic would be stopped at bridges where the lanes are less than 14 feet. Movement would be allowed on sections of road with 11 - foot lanes.

Speeds of 55 miles per hour would be permitted on divided roads and 40 miles per hour on other roads.

Mobile homes of 14- foot width on 12- foot highway lanes are prohibitively unsafe. On 11- foot highways the danger factor increases. On bridges, with traffic to be halted, there is an open invitation to accident.

A 14 - foot mobile home, even on a divided highway, is a road hazard for motorists at any speed, much less 55 miles per hour.

The State Highway Commission is issuing an open invitation to accidents by its action. It is exceptionally difficult for rank and file Missourians to understand why it would fly in the face of its own staff and the Legislature.

We join with those protesting throughout the state and urge the commission, in the interests of public safety, to rescind its action.

DOWNGRADES HOLY PROFIT MOTIVE

Whether he is representative of a new breed of corporation president or is a lone "maverick," businessman Jay Monroe delivered some interesting comments recently to the New Enterprise Club of the Harvard Business School.

"We have to break with the maximizing - of- efficiency tradition," said Monroe, president of the Tensor Corp. "The concept that all is fair in the pursuit of increased earnings per share is dangerous and simplistic ... The whole world could explode."

He clamped down particularly hard on "MBA-type" (master of business administration) thinking which, he alleges, equates success with profits.

To Monroe, "success is measured by a company being in a sufficiently good position to be able to innovate." But formalized business tradition, he claims, discourages innovation.

"I am not putting down profit per se," said Monroe. "But there are other things to be derived from a company apart from building profits for stockholders."

As far as stockholders are concerned, "I don't feel any obligation towards them, apart from complying with Securities Exchange Commission regulations as they relate to sales of an initial issue ... If they still choose to invest, then that's their business.

"I don't think one owes even that much, however, to the subsequent investors because they didn't invest in the company, they simply bought the stock from somebody else. If they're not satisfied with their investment, they can sell it. They're just in for the ride."

If it was going to cost, say, 30 cents a share to invest in antipollution equipment for example, Monroe would adivse his stockholders of this, but would also tell them that "they owe it to society to improve the environment."

This kind of corporate thinking is refreshing, and maybe a little courageous.

FOOD COUNTS MOST

History may record that the American farmer was a decisive influence on the course of events leading to peace. Free enterprise agriculture in the United States has made this country an important food larder for the entire world -- notably for communist countries where agricultural efficiency and the incentives to produce are abysmally low. U.S. News & World Report states, "A need for food is influencing policies. Russia is buying some 30 million tons of grain abroad. Red China is buying too, from Canada, U. S., Argentina ... Hungry nations, like hungry people, want to stay close to the sources of food supply. Only major source for food in such quantities is the U. S."

Many have professed surprise when increased American military pressure on North Vietnam brought no retaliation from the big communist powers. The explanation for this lack of response may well turn out to be the food- producing capacity of U. S. farmers was more important to Russia -- and China -- than th military plight of North Vietnam.

EVERYBODY'S OUT OF STEP BUT ARABS

The Arab ploy to implicate the United States in Israel's raid on Palestinian guerrilla headquarters in Beirut, Lebanon, is quite in keeping with their behavior throughout the generation - long conflict in the Middle East.

Unable or unwillingly to accept reality, the Arabs continue to blame everyone but themselves for their setbacks.

It was not the Israelis' determination to survive in the face of attempts to drive them "into the sea" that was responsible for Arab defeat in every military showdown since then. It has never been Arab shortcomings or Arab mistakes. No, it is always the fault of some outside power, usually the United States.

This detachment from reality was distressingly obvious in the remarks made by Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed el Sayyat as he paused in Rome on his way to the United Nations.

"My government wants to know," he told newsmen, "what the entire world intends to do against a country that practices assassination as a systematic policy method."

Nevermind that the entire world has long been waiting to see what the Arab nations intended to do against the terrorism practiced as a systematic policy method by the Palestianian fanatics in their midst.

Nevermind that the Israeli raid was not directed against innocent civilians or athletes or diplomats but was an inevitable reaction in self- defense against those who descended to assassination and terror in the first place.

Equally distressing is the behavior of the Soviet Union in the U. N. Despite recent moves toward a dente with the United States and rising hopes that the cold war was a thing of the past, the Soviets have revealed themselves to be at the same old stand still dealing in the same old shoddy goods.

As for the Chinese, without whose participation we were told the United Nations could never be an effective force for peace, they have used the debate as an opportunity to score points against both the United States and the U.S.S.R.

As U. S. ambassador to the U.N., John Scali, said, Arab charges against the United States are the same "big lie" technique once practiced so well by the Nazis.

The tragedy is that the Arabs fully believe the lie and are thus setting the stage for more bloody confrontations with Israel and more setbacks — which, of course, will again be everybody's fault but their own.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

How White House Kept the Lid On Presidential Homes' Costs

WASHINGTON -- Suppressed documents show that the White House kept a tight lid on all information relating to expenditures on President Nixon's estates at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

Earlier this year, we reported that former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman directed the extensive San Clemente renovations at a cost to the taxpayers running into the millions.

We have now obtained documents which show Haldeman used a trusted aide, John R. Brown III, to keep tight, total control of the cost information on the presidential retreats. He made sure no unauthorized information leaked out.

"I am the only individual," Brown wrote in 1970 to then General Services Administrator Robert Kunzig, "to whom they (GSA officials) should release cost information concerning your support for White House-involved projects such as Key Biscayne, San Clemente, the West Wing, etc."

'CONFUSION'

Stating there had been "a degree of confusion on the matter," Brown declared in his White House memo: "I believe that it will be easier on all concerned for you to communicate through only one point of contact on the White House staff."

Brown's role as the cost coordinator and censor is revealed in other documents as well. A classified GSA memo, for example, indicates that "the White House will reimburse GSA for cleaning private residences, chafing dishes, ice, etc.

"Any requests other than direct from White House members for additional services in the mansion are to be cleared by John Brown in Washington. Bill for rental of sheets to cover furniture in the residence to be sent to John Brown for payment."

Another GSA document reveals that Brown arranged for a private employe of the Nixon Foundation to use government offices at San Clemente. "Miss Loie Gaunt who is employed by the Nixon Foundation...," states the memo, "has been assigned one of the guest offices in Building B." This was "requested," the memo adds, "by John Brown."

'ADMINISTRATIVE'

Brown confirmed to us that he had handled "administrative functions" and had paid for expenditures at the Nixon estates. He explained that he had used government, political and personal funds to pay the bills. "My instruction," he said, "were to protect against misappropriation of government funds. The problem was not a lack of funds but misappropriation."

Personal expenditures, Brown said, were paid out of the President's personal funds. Expenses of "a political nature" were paid by the Republican National Committee.

He didn't recall whether any money was used at San Clemente from the White House "Special Projects Fund." Because the White House has refused to provide Congress with a listing of expenditures from this annual $1.5 million fund, Congress has cut if off.

FOOTNOTE: The White House had no comment to make, escept to say that the Nixon Foundation employe had not been assigned government office space at San Clemente. When told of the GSA memo, the White House spokesman insisted there was "no recollection of her having been assigned space."

BOOTLEG REPORT: We have obtained a bootleg copy of the inch- thick report which so infuriated Space Administrator James Fletcher that he fired the agency's top woman, Deputy Assistant Administrator Ruth Bates Harris.

Mrs. Harris, who ran the space agency's equal opportunity programs, told Fletcher that as far as blacks and women were concerned, the program is a "near total failure." At the present rate, the agency's black employment will reach nine per cent only by the year 2001. As for women, 88 per cent are in the lowest grades.

"There are "no minority or female astronauts," the document goes on. "There have been three females sent into space by NASA. Two are Arabella and Anita-- both spiders. The other is Miss Baker-- a monkey."

After Fletcher got the scathing report, he fired Mrs. Harris. The firing, he declared, was the result of "discord and divisiveness," not the Harris report.

CABLE FROM ISRAEL: By secret cable, Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban has sent his ambassador in Washington, Simcha Dinitz, an impassioned note to circulate at the highest levels of the U. S. government.

The note stresses the great value the outnumbered Israelis place on every human life and calls for help in learning the fate of Israeli prisoners of war.

The note reports, as of October 24 when the shooting stopped, that Israel had given a full report to the International Red Cross on the 988 Egyptians, 295 Syrians, 12 Iraqis and five Moroccans in Israeli custody.

But virtually no information had been received about Israeli prisoners. "No information whatsoever has been received from Syria," the note alleges. "As to Egypt, an utterly incomplete, unsatisfactory and garbled list of 37 Israeli prisoners of war has been received..."

Seek Boyle's Execution: Yablonski Murder Mystery Still Open; What Happened to Miners' Union Millions?

WASHINGTON--- It is the last mile for the former little King Coal, Tony Boyle, who as ex- miners' union chief regularly dispenses scores of millions of dollars. The shattered 71- year- old Boyle may yet be the first who bore the title of international union president to wind up in an execution chamber.

There's death pallor on his face. Last September he swallowed almost 70 capsules of sodium amytal--- enough barbiturates to kill the Redskins' backfield.

Since psychiatrists have reported he is mentally competent to stand trial--- though still suicide- prone--- he will be heard in federal court Nov. 9 and then moved to Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 12th. He'll be arraigned before a federal court there on charges of conspiring to deprive the rebellious miner Jock Yablonski of his civil rights by murdering him and the women in his family.

Once in Pennsylvania, special state prosecutor Richard Sprague will move to have Boyle remanded to prison without bond where he can be under constant surveillance so he doesn't again attempt to kill himself. Sprague wants the state to have the pleasure.

The prosecutor reportedly is convinced, despite Supreme Court rulings, he can get an execution verdict in a state trial. There will be two trials, one in federal court during February or March on the civil rights charge and one by the state on straightaway murder charges.

There are still on- going FBI investigations into cover- up attempts--- for which the penalty would be five years for those who tried to protect Boyle and the others he ordered to murder Yablonski.

So, Tony Boyle, until death does him part, will spend the rest of his life in prison unless pardoned by both the President and the governor of Pennsylvania. So the murder finally is solved.

But the why isn't. Why was Yablonski killed after Boyle had beaten him in the 1969 election?

Had the Yablonskis not been sadistically ripped open by bullets, first the daughter, then the wife and finally Jock himself, there probably wouldn't have been a re- run election. If the miners had not seen red blood on the ballots, Boyle probably would have won. As it was he piled up some 56,000 votes and a swing of some thousands more would have preserved his domain.

What was Jock Yablonski about to tell a grand jury when he was murdered in his bed in the final hours of 1969?

Could it have been something about the huge United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund? In the past 27 years, under the late deified John L. Lewis and his personal aide and successor Tony Boyle, it has paid out over $3.5 billion.

At the current rate it takes in about a quarter of a billion dollars annually. The money comes from mine owners royalty payments which have virtually doubled in the past three years from 40 cents a ton to the current 70 cents. On Nov. 12 the rate will go to 75 cents and then to 80 cents the end of next April.

Not too long after the killings, a suit by 70 miners and widows was activated against the fund, the union and Boyle. It may sound corny, but the widows and orphans, the elderly miners and those crippled by backbreaking slate falls and other injuries charged that the Boyle bloc was guilty of conspiracy, breach of trust and mismanagement of trust funds.

The claimants sought $75 million in damages. Even Tony Boyle couldn't take that much out of his salary and petty cash account.

There was also a matter of some $70 million to $80 million and perhaps more being held in non- interest bearing accounts in the union-controlled National Bank of Washington. There was also the movement of tens of millions of dollars in union funds to various union districts whose officers were not locally elected but were appointed first by John Lewis, then by Boyle.

Did any of this money wind up in political hands? The miners political operation always was potent in coal field states- - and that means cash in any man's party.

It is generally forgotten that Boyle must go to prison for five years on charges of violating the federal election laws by contributing almost $50,000 of the union's central treasury cash to Vice President Hubert Humphrey's 1968 presidential campaign.

Boyle just passed it along. He knew he was breaking the law. He was frequently warned verbally and in writing by his staffers and legal advisers that he was defying the statutes. He was told not to contribute in this fashion even by check. There are communications to prove all this. When he was told it was illegal and would get them into prison, he reportedly just wrote back, in effect, well I'll think about it.

So though it's Tony Boyle's last mile, though there may be the execution chamber at the end of his road--- the story is far from finished. There may be millions for which to account. And where there's a giver there's a taker. The government spent over $5 million to set this union straight.

A few more dollars for a new federal probe might well disclose where many millions of coaldiggers' dollars went. Boyle's the symptom. Now let's cure the disease.

Judge disqualified in Cluck hearing

KENNETT — Jerry Lee Cluck, 25, of the Malden-Dexter area has been granted a request to disqualify Magistrate Leon McAnally from presiding over the latest charges filed against the defendant by the state.

Magistrate Jack Jolly of Butler County has been requested to sit on the bench for a preliminary hearing for Cluck, who now faces his second burglary charge in the county in less than a year. Still pending against Cluck are burglary charges filed early in February.

Cluck was charged by Pros. Atty. Charles Baker with allegedly burglarizing a Clarkton service station after murder charges against the defendant were dropped in New Madrid County recently.

Cluck had been charged with allegedly murdering a 16- year- old girl from Malden who disappeared shortly before she was to testify against Cluck on a burglary charge in that county. The murder charge was subsequently dropped when one of the witnesses was killed in a car crash and the second refused to testify.

Baker said Cluck's hearing has now been set for 1:30 p.m. Nov. 9. The defendant, who has a court- appointed attorney on the burglary charge still pending, has retained his own attorney to represent him on the latest charge.

WITH THE MIDEAST WAR seemingly in a state of perpetual check, two Israeli soldiers take advantage of a cease-fire to work on their chess game.

Miss Tucker is cash scholarship recipient

Barbara Tucker

HAYTI — Barbara Jo tucker of Sikeston, a sophomore at Lincoln University in Jefferson City was a recent recipient of a cash scholarship donated by the Hayti Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Barbara has been selected to serve as dormitory counselor at Bennett Hall for this year.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Tucker of 308 Westgate St., Sikeston.

Other recipients of sorority scholarships were Dora Hunter of Hayti, who is attending Lincoln University; Gercedia Adams of Caruthersville, who is attending University of Missouri- St. Louis; Harrison Marr Jr., a graduate of Portageville High School and now a freshman at Arkansas State University at Jonesboro; and Larry Gene Duncan, a graduate of Portageivlle High School presently enrolled in The School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout.

All officers re-elected

JEFFERSON CITY — The Commission for Municipal Pooling Services re- elected all of its first- year officers and directors at its first annual meeting Thursday, then reviewed legislation to be introduced in the next session of the Missouri General Assembly and welcomed the city of Poplar Bluff as a new member.

E. R. "Dick" Inman of Sikeston, chairman of the commission's natural gas section, reported that section members are inviting other cities to join the section which seeks to purchase and operate its own natural gas distribution system.

The commission, an organization of cities formed last November with the objective of jointly furnishing essential municipal services, also heard a report from its engineering committee.

Officers re- elected were Keith D. Beardmore of Chillicothe, chairman; Earl Switzer of Macon, first vice chairman; Lowell Anderson of Carrollton, second vice chairman; and James Whitney of Trenton, secretary- treasurer.

Ray Callahan of Vandalia and Leo Smith of Hannibal were re- elected to the executive committee.

Hermann Mayor C. M. Bassman, chairman of the legislative committee, reviewed legislation to be introduced in the forthcoming session of the General Assembly which would grant the commission authority to issue and sell revenue bonds without obligating the member cities and to finance the acquisition and construction of facilities for municipal services.

John Bates of Fulton, chairman of the commission's engineering committee, announced the results of a survey to determine electrical energy needs of Missouri cities through the year 1976. The committee, it was announced, will continue its work to obtain an adequate supply of energy for the member cities.

Cecil R. Johnson, Poplar Bluff Light and Water Department manager, was the city's representative to the meeting.

Danforth speaks out on 'witch hunts'

GREENFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth has criticized "witch hunts" against corruption and says Republicans in Missouri have been guilty of it too.

Danforth, in a Republican dinner speech here Thursday night, said there is a "revived version of the McCarthyism of the 1950s ... in the name of eliminating corruption."

He said that while corruption in high places cannot be condoned, "in the name of governmental integrity we should never presume guilt on the part of public officials" when poof is lacking.

"I am concerned that confirmation hearings are beginning to resemble inquisitions," Danforth said.

"Immediately after the resignation of Mr. Agnew articles appeared in some Missouri newspapers suggesting the possibility that similar situations may have existed in this state in the past, or that the potentiality exists in the future for the receipt of bribes by people in high positions.

"These articles were supported by no facts whatever. They were nothing more than sensational conjecture. Again the thought was expressed that those in public life should be presumed corrupt."

"In recent weeks there appears to have been an almost frantic effort to suggest corruption in the administration of former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes," he said. "I do not believe that it is fair to make sweeping charges of impropriety unless those charges can be substaintiated in great detail.

"As Republicans, the time is past for looking backward to the bygone days of the Hearnes administration. We must stand or fall on our own performance ...

"The fact is that the overwhelming majority of people in government at all levels are decent and honest. Typically, they are underpaid for their efforts. But they are doing the best they can to render good public service. The quickest way to demoralize them is to create a widespread public belief that all politicans are crooks."

What's the Law?

The case of the human error

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Hubert contracted with an auctioneer for the latter to sell a piece of property for him. After the property was knocked down, however, Hubert had to be picked up. To his chagrin, he discovered he didn't own the property that he had asked the auctioneer to sell for him. And despite his numerous apologies for an honest mistake, nothing could dissuade the auctioneer from damanding his commission.

"As far as I'm concerned," insisted the auctioneer, "I did everything necessary to earn my fee. Because you make a mistake isn't my fault."

"But it was an honest mistake," Hubert continued to argue. "To err is human and to punish for a mistake is inhuman. Besides, a person can't collect a commission for selling something he couldn't sell. And you couldn't sell that property because I didn't own it."

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give the auctioneer a commission for selling something he couldn't sell?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that if a person contracts absolutely to sell that which he does not own, he is still bound by the terms of his agreement. Since the auctioneer, in this case, did all that he was required to under his agreement with Hubert to sell the property, concluded the judge, he both earned and was entitled to receive his commission.

Area scout leaders to meet

The 22nd annual meeting of Cotton Boll Area Girl Scout leaders, for all adults interested in scouting, will be held Nov. 29 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the First Christian Church recreation auditorium at Poplar Bluff.

Announcement of the meeting was made Thursday at a neighborhood meeting of Brownie Scout leaders in the home of Mrs. Bill Lewis, 220 Kramer Drive, with Mrs. Tom Gilmore, neighborhood chairman, presiding.

Everyone who works with Girl Scouts is invited to the meeting and should register with their neighborhood chairman. The registration deadline is Nov. 26.

Mrs. Bill Huff explained registration forms for new leaders and encouraged leaders who might have difficulty with the forms to meet Nov. 26 at 274 N. Ranney at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Gilmore announced that Mrs. Fred Thornton will become Brownie neighborhood chairman on Jan. 1, 1974.

Brownie leaders were reminded to take money collected for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund to Mrs. Lewis.

SUNDAY

Beloved, I beseech you as aliens and exiles to abstain from the passions of the flesh that wage war against your soul. Maintain good conduct among the Gentiles, so that in case they speak against you as wrongdoers, they may see your good deeds and glorify God on the day of visitation. —I Peter 2:11,12.

Overprotection from violence is wrong

By SHAREN K. HUNT
Area Home Economist

Over- reaction to society's violence can lead parents and teachers to restrict young children's play in ways that may interfere with sound emotional development, cautions Dr. Maria Piers, director of the Erikson Institute for Early Childhood Education.

The psychologist fears that adults may go overboard in attempting to screen all violence from children's lives and get rid of or erase all aggressive behavior.

Some parents have gone overboard and now forbid children to watch popular TV shows and ban "violent" books, such as Mother Goose or Grimm's Fairy Tales, she notes, warning that "too strict censorship may do more harm than good. It can get a child so curious that he just "has to" look at those forbidden TV shows or books outside his home.

Then if he becomes frightened by what he sees, he doesn't feel free to talk about it with his parents, since he wasn't supposed to see it anyway. Pent up, his fears grow rather than diminish.

The violence-- "really a kind of pseudo- violence"-- that shows up in children's play is easily misinterpreted by parents and teachers, says the psychologist.

An adult sees kids pointing toy guns at each other and snatches the weapons away with a steamy lecture on "killing". Yet preschool educators know that even if the toy guns are removed from the playroom, children repeat the same shoot- outs with crayons, fingers, blocks, even plastic spoons.

To youngsters, guns are not deadly weapons, but symbols for their deep urge to project themselves into the world, an expression of their need to thrust forward at this time of life.

We see a child mistreating a doll or stuffed animal and react as if the child were torturing a living thing, "though there's always a good developmental reason for the child's action," points out Dr. Piers. For example, a child who feels displaced by a new baby may spank a doll long and angrily to relieve her feelings. Later, she puts the doll back and tucks it in, feeling better, knowing she hasn't hurt anybody.

Normal aggression exists where life exists, emphasizes the child development specialist. "It is a vital part of all human activity, a life-preserving quality." The young child becomes civilized as he learns to deal with his own aggression constructively.

In their zeal to raise non-violent human beings, there is danger that parents and teachers will forget that responsible, productive, peace- loving adults are those who learned to accept and cope with their stronger feelings...not those who have been taught to deny their existence or been punished for having them.

Expert Says Women Need Budget Study

NEW YORK (AP) — Women have mastered the task of juggling home and office but one thing escapes them, according to an investments expert.

"Most have not yet mastered the art of balancing their budgets," says Julius Jensen III, chief executive officer of the Continental Investment Corp. of Boston.

Jensen adds that women work in every conceivable segment of business and industry and maintain superb control over all facets of their lives. But he feels that too many women have not paid attention to everyday problems of handling their own financial affairs.

"They should devote as much time to their money as they do to their looks," Jensen says. "Too often, they save for a cloudy day, a new coat or a miracle morning at the beauty salon, overlooking that nebulous world of the future."

The financial expert adds that women have not been adequately prepared to tackle the fine points of making ends meet. He advises a program to correct this oversight.

First, schedule a certain time for financial scrutiny. Make an appointment with yourself once or twice a month, and keep it. Select a time of day or evening when you are reasonably certain you will not be interrupted.

Train yourself to regard this financial period as a constructive session to benefit the checkbook and you.

Then, says Jensen, you can take your time and go over finances carefully. Plan ahead. Financial good health, he says, follows close attention to checkbook duties.

Ann Landers

Girl, 17, simply doesn't like to date

Dear Ann Landers: My problem might not sound important to you but it is so important to me that I've considered seeing a psychiatrist.

I am a girl, 17, attractive and a good student. I like people and people like me. But I don't have the slightest desire to date. Many fellows have asked me out and I've manufactured stupid excuses, some so transparent and clumsy that I later tried to make it up to them. I feel guilty if I hurt someone's feelings.

I don't know why I don't want to date. All my girlfriends do but I have no interest in it. Am I abnormal? If you suspect that I might be a lesbian, let me assure you I'm not. I feel no attraction to either girls OR boys.

Do you believe I should accept a few dates anyway? If you say go, I'll go.--- Alexandria

Dear A.: You remind me of the fellow who didn't like peaches. "Did you get sick from a peach once?" asked a friend. "No," was the reply. "I've never eaten one." The natural question followed, "Then how do you know you don't like them?"

My advice is to accept a few dates, even though you aren't excited about the idea. If after six months of dating you still have no interest in members of the opposite sex, get some counseling.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's sister is a widow. She makes her home with us. The woman was never a bundle of charm, but we always get along O. K.--- until recently.

Ever since the doctor told her she had diabetes she has been hell on wheels. She complains, feels sorry for herself, calls her friends and cries on the phone by the hour, and she has developed a terrible temper. The woman is nervous and depressed, afraid of everything, and behaves as if she has had a mental breakdown. Is it possible that this personality change is related to her diabetes?--- J. And T. In Peoria

Dear J. and T.: Severe diabetes can produce personality changes, especially if the person is excessively apprehensive and unwilling to make the necessary adjustment.

Talk to your sister- in- law's doctor and ask him to explain this to you. It might help if he explained it to HER, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17- year- old girl with a 40- year- old problem. My mother. She picks to pieces every guy who walks into this house. This one is too short and that one is too fat, or his hair is too long, or his mother is a tramp, or his pants are too tight in front.

Three times last month she arranged dates for me with the sons of business friends of Dad's and they were all so creepy I nearly threw up.

What burns me is that Mom doesn't even ask if I have plans for a certain evening. She goes right ahead and arranges things and then I have to go even if it means canceling something I really want to do.

I trust your judgment, Ann. Am I an ungrateful brat of a dumb kid? What are my rights? Please give me the word.--- Human Sacrifice

Dear Human: An overly ambitious mother like yours can ruin the chances of some very nice guys by trying to cram them down a daughter's throat. Your mother is being unfair to you and to the young men she fixes you up with. You hate them before they show up. Tell Mom Ann says to cool it.

What's the story on pot, L. S. D., cocaine, uppers and sowners, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Survey donations to be discussed

BENTON — The Scott County Soil and Water Conservation District will discuss donations for the standard soil survey and nominees for the supervisor election and hear reports on school poster contest entries, the soil survey and federal disaster assistance and emergency disaster programs during a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

New business to be discussed includes the formation of a ladies auxiliary, selection of landowners to receive conservation awards, district committee organizations, 1974 district budget and a meeting with state legislators.

Ridge farming saves water, fuel

Engineers call it "ridge farming" or "tri-zone tillage -- and it looks good for conserving water, saving fuel and helping farmers plant and harvest sooner.

The tillage system includes a ridge for growing crops and a zone next to it for equipment wheels to run. Between the ridges is a furrow for collecting plant residues, increasing infiltration, and disposing of runoff without erosion.

"A machine is needed to form the ridges and furrows and to reshape them each year," said Sam McKibben, University of Missuri-Columbia agricultural engineer. "We've developed an experimental machine, but none is available commercially. But we think that once the farmers find out how workable and practical this tillage method is, they'll figure out a way to do the job until industry makes the machine available."

McKibben and R. P. Beasley have been testing tri-zone tillage for three years and are convinced of its soundness.

--The ridges warm up sooner and dry out faster in spring, allowing farmers to plant earlier and seeds to germinate faster.

--The furrows slow water runoff, reduce erosion, and provide a trap to catch windblown soil.

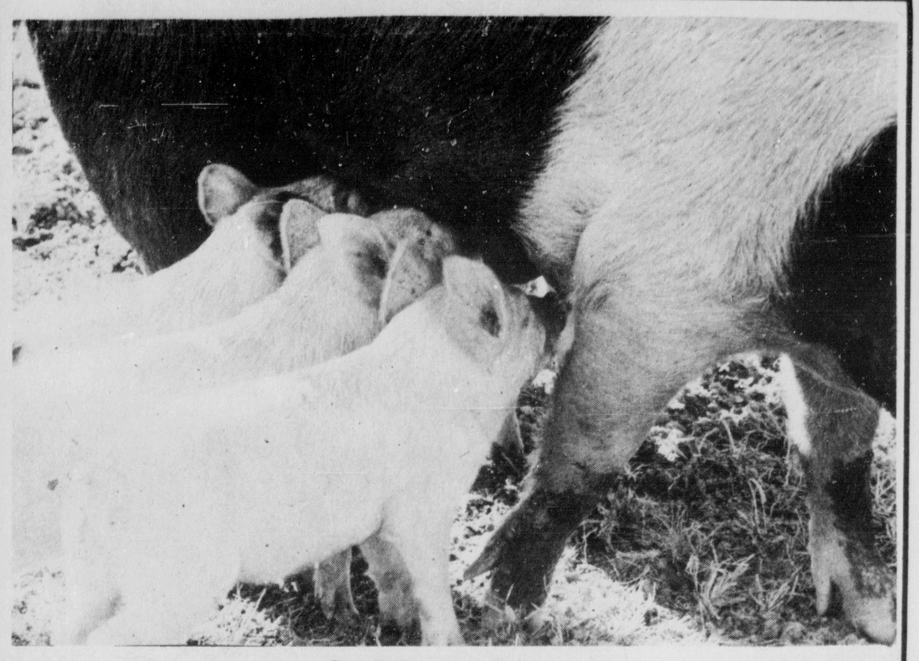

--Water infiltration into the soil is more efficient. Soil scientists have reported that the ridge- furrow configuration is almost ideal for water infiltration. On flat cultivated fields, air is trapped below the ground because the water won't let it escape. With tri- zone tillage, the air can escape through the ridge, allowing the water to enter the ground in the furrow, efficiently reaching plant root zones.

--Either a no- till or minimum tillage procedure can be used with the ridges. Farmers can conserve fuel and keep costs low.

McKibben pointed out that good weed control is necessary to make tri- zone tillage profitable. In his tests, minimum tillage was combined with Paraquat to do the job. "We are confident that no- till will work with tri- zone," he said, "but we have not yet used it."

Fertilizer should be worked lightly into the soil to reduce losses and improve availability of nutrients, said McKibben.

To efficiently build and maintain ridges, the UMC engineers said farmers should combine initial ridging and reshaping with shredding. This would allow the soil work to be done while the residues are off the ground passing through the shredder. Shredded residues can then be discharged into the reshaped furrows behind the machine where they improve erosion control and infiltration.

Parma farmer gets big yield

PARMA — J. E. Stephens Jr., Route One, averaged 172.457 bushels per acre of harvested shelled corn on a field located one and one-fourth miles east of Vinson Store.

The field was entered in the corn- growing contest sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association but was disqualified because the field was irrigated. The corn was mechanically harvested and the yield was weighed and adjusted to 15½ per cent moisture.

To get his big yield Stephens planted the field on May 15 at the rate of 26,000 stalks to the acre. The variety was V—16 and for a preplant fertilizer application he put on 300 pounds of bulk 0-18-36 per acre. Later he side dressed with 250 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre.

Attend Farm Bureau meeting

Youths to attend meeting

COLUMBIA — Interest in man, his environment and consumerism has led to the creation of several 4-H programs. In the wake of recent trends, more and more youths are participating in these programs, such as conservation, principles of nutrition and career exploration.

According to Nelson Trickey, extension state youth specialist at the University of Missouri- Columbia, three southeast Missouri youths will be among 1,250 youths from the entire country receiving expense paid trips to the National 4-H Congress Nov. 25-29 in Chicago for competition in other 4-H events and educational awards in these and other 4-H programs.

Commodity marketing programs encourage youths to develop leadership talents, learn the basic principles of marketing while applying them to commodities sold in cash markets and traded in futures.

Consumer education is in line with the commodity program. It also aims to develop leadership abilities, build character and create understanding in consumer behavior to personal values, goals and available resources. It also teaches how social, economic and political systems affect consumers.

The conservation of natural resources program is celebrating its 20th anniversary. Its objective is to encourage 4-H youths and influence others to develop leadership talents in conservation action programs, appreciate the social and economic values of natural resources and learn appropriate scientific practices and methods in conservation.

A second conservation award goes to the Missouri 4-H'er for special work in this program area. It is in line with the natural resource program but is sponsored on the state level by E. G. Cherbonnier.

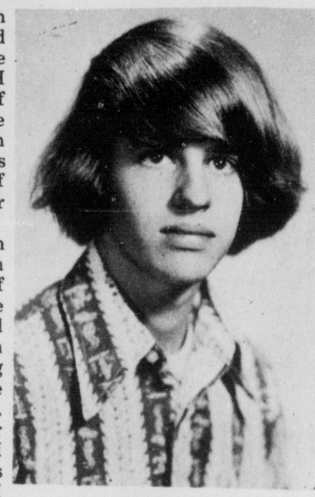

"I feel that conservation will help me to be a better citizen. It will help to teach me how to work in the democratic process. By realizing the other person's point of view, we can better strive to be beneficial to all involved," said Peter Myers Jr. of Sikeston when asked about his interest in 4-H.

Myers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Myers of 1007 Davis Blvd., Sikeston, and the 16- year- old youth has been a member of 4-H for eight years.

Myers received a National 4-H Congress educational trip to Chicago from John Deere Co., in conservation of natural resources.

Each year the Santa Fe Railroad Co. sponsors five youths who are State 4-H achievers. Three of the youths win trips on their overall records while two othes receive recognition in livestock projects and career exploration activities.

"The 4-H organization gives members continuous opportunities to express themselves. It supports a 'learn by doing' atmosphere through which individuals not only learn about themselves, but also become aware of those around them, and the world in general," said Nancy Kieffer, 18- year- old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Kieffer of Illmo, route One, when asked about 4-H.

Peter Meyers

Miss Kieffer plans to go into personnel management after completion of studies at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, where she is a freshman. She is an over- all achievement winner.

Several youths won in areas which objectives are to learn the principles of nutrition as they relate to good health, physical fitness and attractive appearance at all stages in life.

Winners come from the bread, dairy foods, food nutrition and food preservation activity areas and are competing for a total of 249 educational and college scholarships valued at $172,400.

Carol Jean Weber, 18, Box 27, Kelso, knows she can integrate what she has learned from the food nutrition project in later life. She says, "My 4-H foods project will not only help me in later life, but in my present life and to enjoy a longer life. By this I mean that I have learned the importance of the daily food guide, the principles of good nutrition and the economic and nutritional advantages of food preservation and preparation."

Miss Weber is a freshman at Southeast Missouri State University majoring in vocational home economics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Weber Sr. and a member of the Willing Workers club.

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Transit Commission is studying a proposal to use subway trains to move goods as well as people. In off-peak hours, suggests TTC Commissioner Crawford Smyth, container goods could be loaded at any subway terminal for speedy delivery in the city.

Market activity picks up

HAYTI — Activity picked up slightly on local Missouri cotton markets last week according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Hayti Classing Office. Demand strengthened and prices were steady to firm. Buyers were active in the market seeking all qualities of cotton not committed to contracts.

Most farmers offered the small volume of uncommitted cotton freely and sold grade 31 staple 34 cotton at prices of 63 to 64 cents a pound. Grade 41 staple 34 brought from 61 to 62 cents per pound and grade 51 staple 34 sold for 58 to 60 cents per pound.

Farmers continued to deliver the majority of recent ginnings on previously made contracts. Ginyard prices for cottonseed were unchanged and ranged from $90 to $100 per ton at the various gin locations.

The harvest was delayed temporarily by intermittent showers during the week, but farmers were able to pick considerable cotton at most locations nevertheless.

The Agricultural Marketing Service's Hayti office classed 28,000 samples for farmers last week. Total classings for the season through Nov. 2 was 102,000. Quality of the samples classed improved slightly from the previous week.

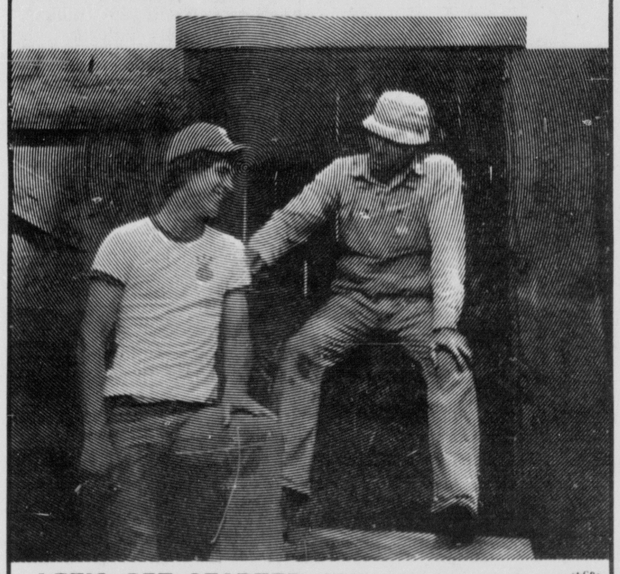

Grade 41 accounted for the highest percentage of classings at 63 per cent, about unchanged from a week earlier. Grade 31 was the next highest at 13 per cent, against 11 per cent the previous week. Staple length averaged slightly longer last week with 78 per cent stapling 34, compared with 85 per cent the week before and 20 per cent with lengths of 35 up from 13 per cent a week earlier.

Ninety- three per cent of the samples miked in the base range of 3.5 to 4.9 with only 5 per cent in the 5.0 and higher range last week. Breaking strength was good and averaged 84,000 pounds per square inch on the samples tested.

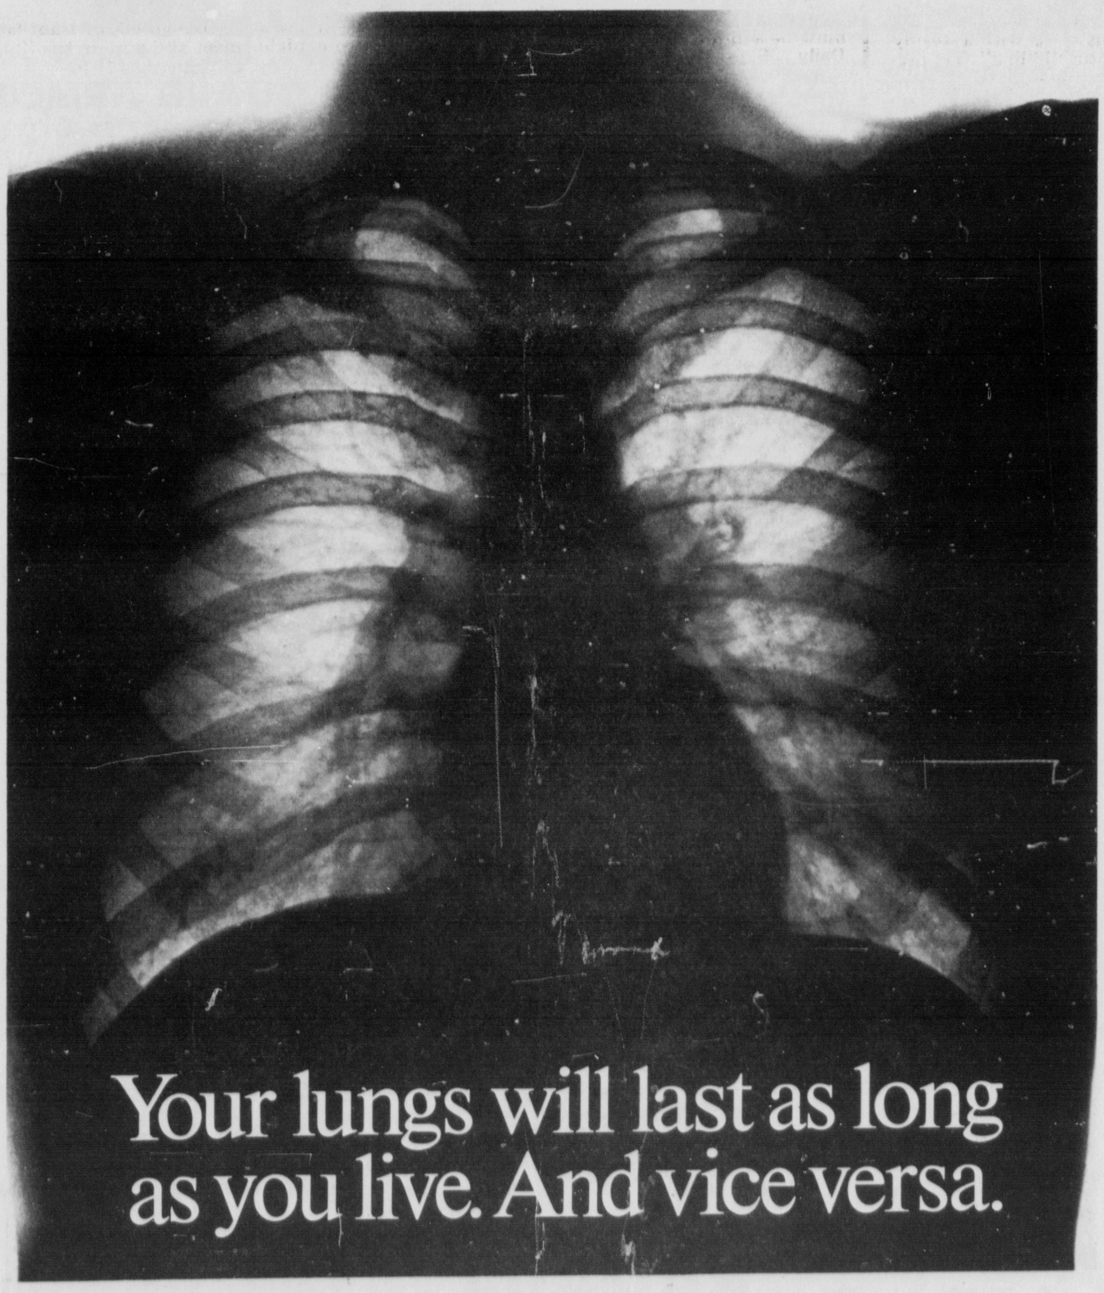

Once a barren sink basin, the blue 450-square-mile Salton Sea in Southern California's Imperial Valley was filled with waters that flowed through a break in a Colorado River levee 68 years ago.

Sides scores again

Jackson's all-state running back, Loren Sides, (21) hauls in a pass for the final score of the game Friday night at Public School Stadium as the Indians rallied for 21 points in the fourth quarter to topple the Bulldogs, 21-7.

Defense shines

Poplar Bluff's defense played a key role in the Mules 22-16 victory over the Charleston Blue Jays Friday night. Here, the Mules defense contains the CHS scoring star, J. J. Black.

Indians rally

Jackson's all- state running back, Loren Sides, broke loose in the fourth quarter at Public School Stadium Friday night to spark the Jackson Indians to a 21- 7 victory over the Sikeston Bulldogs.

It was the same old story for the SHS gridders, who have won only one game this season, as the Indians defense finally wore down the courageous SHS defensive unit and marched in for the victory with a big fourth quarter outburst.

SHS's offensive unit sputtered throughout the game, passing up a pair of scoring chances when penalities shoved them back early in the game.

What has been said before about the Sikeston Bulldog's football team was the dominating factor last night. The defense once again held the Bulldogs close until the fourth quarter when Loren Sides could be contained no longer. Sides exploded for 63 yards in the fourth quarter along with two touchdowns.

The first half of the game was a see- saw battle with the ball changing hands numerous times and with neither team being able to mount a scoring drive. The only sustained drive that either team could put together was the possession of the Bulldogs. The Bulldogs drove from their 32 yard line to the 32 yard line of the Indians before they were stalled and forced to attempt a 50 yard field goal.

The second half started much the same way the first did with both teams being unable to score a touchdown. Late in the third quarter the Bulldogs took control of the ball on Jackson's 37 yard line. Colwick started the drive with a two yard carry followed by two incomplete passes one by Blankenship to Love and one from Waters to Eisenbach. On a fourth down and eight yard situation, Blankenship passed to Colwick for a 24 yard gain and a first down. From the 11 yard line Colwick moved the ball to the nine, Tom DeRoush picked up three more to the six and Blankenship ran into the endzone for the touchdown. Ron Priday booted the extra point and Sikeston had a 7- 0 lead going into the fourth quarter.

On Jackson's first possession of the fourth period, Mark Jones mixed up the ball possssions with Loren Sides, Darrell Sides, and himself carrying the ball. The Sides picked up much of the yardage with Loren scoring on a five yard run. Mark Jones kept the ball and scored the two point conversion. After a Sikeston first down and a Jackson penalty the Bulldogs were forced to punt and the wind was the deciding factor. Colwick's punt was downed on the Jackson 46 yard line--- two yards from the original line of scrimmage. Jackson then drove 54 yards in six plays wity Loren Sides scoring on a twelve yard run.

Sikeston started to come back late in the fourth quarter when Blankenship hit Breg Colwick for a 10 yard pass again. The three successive downs produced a ten yard loss and on fourth down Blankenship was rushed hard and threw the ball into Dennis Koch's hands for an interception. The Indians took control of the ball on the 19 yard line and from there Darrel and Loren Sides teamed up to score the touchdown on two plays. Rob Litz kicked the extra point and the Indians went on to a 21- 7 victory.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Carnesecca is returning this fall as basketball coach at St. John's University in Jamaica, N.Y. Carnesecca coached the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association the past three years. Before that he coached St. John's following the retirement of the late Joe Lapchick.

The Redmen open their home season against Davidson on Dec. 11. They open the season in the Clemson tournament in South Carolina on Nov. 30. They also are listed to play in the Connecticut tournament at New Haven on Dec. 21-22 and in the ECAC holiday festival in Madison Square Garden starting Dec. 26.

The longest prison sentence on record was given to two confidence men in Iran in 1960. Together they were sentenced to 7,109 years in jail.

Bearcats claim title

DEXTER — Coach Clyde Vaughn's DHS Bearcats stormed to the schools third straight Southern Division league title Friday night behind its 41-0 romp of the Chaffee Red Devils.

Jay Lemons started the scoring off with a four yard run for a TD and Don Backfish kicked the extra point. Darrell Pyle scored next on a 14 yard pass play from Backfish, who added the extra point.

Mike Cooksey sprinted three yards to start the second quarter and Backfish made the score 21-0 with his extra point boot. Lemons scored on a 10 yard run as Backfish rounded out the first half scoring with his extra point boot.

Backfish teamed with Greg Miller, his favorite receiver, for a 40 yard score in the third and kicked the extra point for a 35-0 advantage. Chris Bryant completed the scoring for the Bearcats with a one yard plunge late in the game.

Indians collar Dogs

HAYTI— Coach Jerry Cecil's HHS Indians shutout the Gideon Bulldogs 19- 0 here Friday night.

The Indians jumped on the scoreboard early in the first quarter on a four yard run by Eddie Martin and the kick following was missed.

The next touchdown came in the third quarter when Bradley Luce plunged one yard and again the kick following was missed.

The Fourth Quarter saw Danny White plunge for two yards and the third Hayti touchdown, following this kick was good by Mark Cartee.

Zalma wins cage opener

MARQUAND--- Zalma claimed a pair of victories here Tuesday night as it took part in officially opening the Southeast Missouri basketball season. Zalma's B- team scored a 56- 43 win and the varsity followed with a 73- 70 win.

Mickey West led the winners scoring attack with 21 points. Kerry Mondy and David Kirkpatrick contributed 18 and 17 markers respectively.

Marquand's Mike Masters led all scorers on the night with a 36 point effort. C. J. Reimler added 17 to the Tigers total.

Cape romps

KENNETT — The Cape Central Tigers continued to win, romping to a 56-0 victory over the KHS Indians here last night. The Tigers scored 14 points in each of the four quarters.

Tim Vickery scored first on a six yard run with Jeff Hutton booting the extra point. Steve C. Taylor scored the second touchdown of the period when he raced 36 yards for the score and Hutton kicked the fourteenth point.

In the second period, Tim Vickery scored his second and third touchdowns of the evening. Vickery broke loose early in the period for a 24 yard romp and later he broke away for a 61 yard run. Hutton kicked the extra points.

The second half saw Steve C. Taylor score on a seven yard run with Hutton booting his fifth point of the game. Rick Webb came into the game and scored from 20 yards out. Hutton added the extra point for a 42-0 third quarter score.

With reserves working the fourth quarter, Chris Stiegemeyer scored from the four yard line and later he broke away for a 61 yard run. Hutton kicked the extra points.

The second half saw Steve C. Taylor score on a seven yard run with Hutton booting his fifth point of the game. Rick Webb came into the game and scored from 20 yards out. Hutton added the extra point for a 42-0 third quarter score.

With reserves working the fourth quarter, Chris Stiegemeyer scored from the four yard line and later from 34 yards out. Jeff Hutton kicked the extra point following Stiegemeyer's first touchdown and Bob Gessert booted the final point of the game.

Mules kick Jays

The victory lifted the PBHS gridders into at least a share of the Northern Division league crown and gave them a chance to wrap up the championship next week when they face the Sikeston Bulldogs.

Poplar Bluff became the first team to crack the Blue Jay defensive unit this season for a score and did it at the key point in its season as both teams were battling for the inside hold on the league race.

Poplar Bluff completely stopped the area's top scorer, J.J. Black, holding the fleet back to 45 yards rushing in eleven carries.

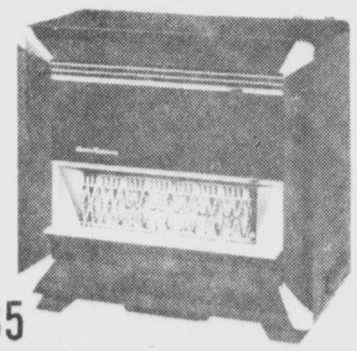

The Bluejays struck quick against the Mules as quarterback Junior Delay raced 47 yards for a TD on the third play from scrimmage with 10:42 left in the first period. Kent Sutherland scored two points and the home team led 8- 0.

The lead was short lived as the Mules penetrated the once invincible Charleston defense for a touchdown and two point conversion to tie the score 8- 8 and before the half came to a close the Mules had crossed the Bluejay goal for another six points and led 14- 8.

The Mules defense had completely shut off the Bluejay attack. Poplar added eight more points in the third period and held off a Bluejay attack late in the final period as Delay hit Charlie Glenn with a pass in the endzone to make the final score 22- 16.

Charleston has the ball and was trying to come back as time ran out. The Bluejays take on powerful Cape Central next Thursday night and must win to stay in the conference race as Poplar Bluff travels to Sikeston Friday night.

Davis stars

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fullback Annise Davis of East Prairie, Mo., and tailback Jornel Williams led the Missouri Freshman football team to a 50-28 victory over the Kansas State Freshmen Friday.

Davis gained 128 yards in 10 carries, scoring a touchdown on an 84-yard run. Williams had two touchdowns and 91 yards.

K-State fumbles set up two early Missouri touchdowns. The Tigers led 27-7 just before halftime, but in the next 49 seconds Missouri scored once and Kansas State twice. The halftime score was 33-21.

Bard's FG tops MHS

In the First Quarter the Green Waves drove deep into Eagle territory to the five yard line and the Eagles held tough.

The only other scoring threat came in the Fourth Quarter when Malden Quarterback, Nick Arnold led the Green Waves into E. P.'s 15 yard line, and was then intercepted by the Eagle's Steve Husk.

East Prairie is now 3- 2 in the South Conference and Malden is 1- 4 receiving their only win by defeating the Chaffee Red Devils last week.

Season opener

Season opened

BELL CITY — The Advance Hornets and the host Cubs junior varsity basketball teams tipped off the 1973-74 high school season here Friday night in the annual B team tournament with the Hornets of coach Carroll Cookson coming out on top 50-39. In the second game of the night, Cookson's brother, (Ronnie) put his Braves up against coach Danny Kight's Bobcats with the Braves triumphant 56-34.

In the opening game of the night Coach Ronnie Stone's Bell City Cubs battled the Hornets from the tip off until the first two minutes of the fourth period when Advance broke the Cub press for a couple easy buckets and pulled away.

Bell City jumped out on top of the cold shooting Hornets 8-2 before Advance finally found their shooting range and finally pulled ahead 20-19 at the intermission.

The Hornets had trouble for three quarters with their ball handling and Bell City, behind the shooting of Leonard Gross and Scott Weeks with 15 and 11 points respectively, stayed close.

Advance kept the Cubs at a disadvantage with Hill popping in 18 points to take individual scoring honors for the game. The Hornets hit 19 field goals to 13 for Bell City.

The Scott Central Braves used a fast moving offense and a pressure defense to rattle the Delta Bobcats. Both teams started cold from the field in the first quarter with the Bobcats leading 9-8. The junior Braves used good rebounding and a fast break to leave the Bobcats behind in thesecond period, scoring 24 points to only four for Delta and a 24-4 halftime lead.

The scoring slowed somewhat in the third and fourth periods as the Braves hit 12 in each of the two periods and Delta scored 10 in the third and 11 in the fourth.

Scott Central pumped in 28 shots from the field to 15 for the Bobcats. Delta hit four free tosses while the Braves didn't shoot a single shot from the charity stripe.

Saturday night the Bloomfield Wildcats play the Puxico Indians and Oran tangles with Kelly in the second night of first round action. Semi-finals start at 6:30 Monday and the finals are at 6:30 and 8:00 Wednesday night. Scoring:

Rams claim 17th

ISC used a hardnose defense and big burst of offense to put the game away at the half. Coach Wilthong used his reserves for the second half of play.

The Rams started the scoring after Cairo was stopped after the opening kickoff. ISC used a sustained march of 70 yards, climaxed by a one yard plunge by Ralph Heisserer for the touchdown. Richard Springs kicked his first of four extra points and ISC led 7-0.

Randy Bohn climaxed another drive in the first period with a one yard plunge into the endzone and Springs added the point for a 14-0 lead.

Cairo was unable to stop the Rams in the second period as Steve Wadlington hit paydirt with a four yard dash. Heisserer scored his second TD of the game on a four yard dash and the scoring was finished for the night.

Scott Wright was the leading ball carrier for the Rams with 43 yards in eight carries. Randy Bohn was second with 39 yards in seven carries. Richard Baker hit two for two passes for 46 yards. The Rams had a total of 172 yards rushing.

Today is Saturday, Nov. 3, the 307th day of 1973. There are 58 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal was given a vote of confidence at the polls. Republican candidate Alf Landon carried only Maine and Vermont.

Also, on this date:

In 561, Julian became emperor of Rome on the death of Emperor Constantine.

In 1796, John Adams was elected the second President of the United States.

In 1868, the Republican candidate for president, Gen. Ulysses Grant, was elected over Horatio Seymour.

In 1883, the world Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized at a national convention in Chicago.

In 1903, the Republic of Panama was proclaimed.

Homemade gasoline out of cow manure gasoline

RED KEY, Ind. (AP) — What you scrape off your shoes today may be the answer to the energy crisis tomorrow, claims an east central Indiana farmer.

Richard Shuttleworth, of rural Red Key, uses ordinary cow manure, plentiful and free on his 144-acre cattle farm, to power most of his domestic energy needs.

Shuttlesworth and his son John have constructed what they call an "anerobic digester" that can convert meadow muffins, road apples or buffalo chips into usable methane fuel.

Using a garden hose, Shuttlesworth hooked up his contraption here Friday and operated an automobile engine for a group of newsmen.

"It provides enough power to run gas lights, heat a house or dry grain," Shuttlesworth said.

The homemade gasoline is produced by dumping waste and water in the machine and vacuum-sealing the unit, which then uses bacteria to break down the manure into gaseous matter. It also makes a nitrogen-rich fertilizer.

The manure and water is allowed to stand. As it does, the gas rises to the top of the tank, where it is siphoned off, for use directly as it comes from the generator or it can be stored in presurized tanks.

The system represents an investment of $15,000, but Shuttlesworth said anyone with a 55-gallon metal drum and some spare time could make one for less than $2,000.

His son, John, editor of an ecology magazine, said the basic idea behind the digester might someday enable an apartment building to be heated by its residents' wastes.

The elder Shuttlesworth started building the digester last July with the assistance of L. John Fry, who designed one that processed enough gas from the waste of his hog herd to power his South African farm.

Although the digester cannot be labelled foolproof, Shuttlesworth has learned much from the operation at his farm. For instance, he has found the unit operates best at a temperature of 95 degrees.

John Shuttlesworth said he plans to build a larger digester at the headquarters of his magazine, the Mother Earth News, in North Carolina that will be heated by the sun's rays and stirred by the wind.

Manufacturers have expressed interest in the system and the Shuttlesworths predict a commercial model for home use may be ready in a few months.

While the system is not powerful enough to revolutionize the auto industry, Shuttlesworth said, "A perfect system could be developed very rapidly by the right people in this day of high technology, but I think they will have to feel the energy pinch more acutely before they begin to move fast."

record one for expenses. However, there was some net gain.

The Agriculture Department reports gross income at $68.9 billion, an increase of $9.2 billion over the prior year.

Production expenses rose in the same period to $49.2 billion, which was $4.7 billion above 1971. As a result, net farm income went up $4.5 billion in the past year.

All signs point to a much bigger improvement in the current year.

Bluff man shot by state trooper

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP)—A 37-year-old Poplar Bluff man was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Community Hospital with gunshot wounds suffered at the hands of a state trooper.

Highway Patrol authorities in Kirkwood said James R. Russell of rural Poplar Bluff was shot twice Friday night near here after stopped in a stolen vehicle.

The patrol said Russell flourished a pistol which he pointed at the officer and was in return shot in the right side and abdomen.

Warrants were expected to be sworn out charging Russell with the theft of the vehicle from neighboring St. Francois County, the patrol said.

Harper receives electrical burns

DEXTER-- A Bloomfield man received electrical burns Friday while wiring a house for Missouri Utilities north of Dexter, according to the Stoddard County sheriff's department.

Don Harper said today that he suffered burns to his left leg and right forefinger when he accidentally touched a hot wire. He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital. Harper said he expects to be dismissed today.

Efforts next will be directed toward helping each community prepare itself for industry.

"The very minimum we try to provide a prospect before his visit to a community is a site sketch, arial photos and topographic map coverage," he said. "Many communities are still lacking in this basic data which most industrialists require before they will visit the site in person," he added.

Also discussed at the meeting were methods of funding for the six county industrial development effort. Philip Shelton, executive director of the BIDC said a proposal for funding of $8,000 has been sent to the Ozark Regional Planning Commission.

TELLY SAVALAS: ASKED AND ANSWERED HIS OWN QUESTION

Choice acting plum that it is, the part of Lt. Theo Kojak was still given a lot of thought by Telly Savalas before he agreed to accept the starring role in the new series "Kojak," broadcast Wednesdays (9:00- 10:00 PM CST) on the CBS Television Network.

Savals first wondered, "Does the world need another television cop show?" He thought it did not-- until confronted with the role of Kojak, which he first played on "The Marcus- Nelson Murders" on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies." Both Savalas and the movie received 1972- 73 Emmy nominations.

"There are a lot of reasons why I agreed to re- create the character in a series," Savalas says. "I like the character, and I have a great deal of regard for the creative team behind the series.

"Kojak is a New York City cop who grew up among the people. He cares about them. And sometimes he is fooled by them, which makes him a real person. He can be tough when it's necessary, but he also knows when to look the other way."

Although the series will be based in Hollywood, it will use actual New York City locations as much as possible, to provide the realism the series demands, Savalas notes.

"I think this series will also show the American public just how tough a job policemen have in this country," he continues. "Each and every day they expose themselves to all kinds of danger, while still being the target of criticism."

Another factor in Savalas' decision to do the series was the people behind "Kojak." Academy Award-winner Abby Mann, the series' executive producer, won an Emmy for his script of "The Marcus- Nelson Murders." Matthew Rapf, the supervising producer, previously was the producer of "Slattery's People," "Ben Casey" and "Longstreet." James McAdams, the producer, previously produced "The Virginian," "A Road West" and "Ironside."

"That's enough talent to make any actor confident," says Savalas.

'LOVE STORY'
Wednesdays, NBC Television Network
(In Color, 9- 10 p.m.)

"Love Story," an anthology series of romantic tales in the traditional genre, will premiere this Fall on the NBC Television Network.

Following the concept of great romantic novels, stories and motion pictures, each presentation of the series will focus on the start, the problems and the resolution of a romance. Typifying such traditional romantic themes is the film, "Love Story," from which both the series title and its theme song are derived.

There will be a different cast of guest stars each week for "Love Story" and the varied plots of the full- hour telecasts may range from modern day romance in a big-city apartment to some of literature's more memorable romantic stories.

A SUPPLEMENT TO THE OXFORD ENGLISH DICTIONARY. Edited by R.W. Burchfield. Volume I, A-G. Oxford University Press. 1,331 Pages. $50.

"The Oxford English Dictionary" is undoubtedly the greatest lexicon ever compiled in the language, probably in any language, and a comprehensive supplement to it is bound to be a major publishing event.

The basic dictionary was conceived in 1858, at the high noon of Victorianism, and the great scholars who carried out the conception had to be influenced in some degree by that golden era with its sometimes stifling mores. When the work was completed in 1928, it had employed 12 volumes and the dedicated care of four chief editors. A 13th-volume supplement was added in 1933 in an effort to bring the work up to date. The present supplement, which will extend to two more volumes over the next six years, replaces the earlier one of more than a generation ago.

The new supplement is as much a child of our time as the mother work was of Victorian and Edwardian provenance. But, disregarding any preference or prejudice for the inclusion of words from which the first editors politely turned away, no diminution of scholarship is apparent. The basic format prevails: the evolution of words is traced to the present, with fascinating quotations to support the progressive — or regressive — definitions.

Yes, the four-letter words which the Victorian editors knew but shunned in print are there, at least the most significant ones, from A through G, and indubitably the others will follow in the subsequent volumes. But also you find the words of modern technology and science: aureomycin, cobalt bomb, computer, complex, plus some more encyclopedic than lexicographical, such as Guarnerius, for the famous Italian violin maker.

Also, much more attention is paid to the themes with variations on the mother tongue played in America and the English-speaking dominions — Australia, Canada, etc. Perhaps the fact that the new editor, R.W. Burchfield, is a New Zealander now a fellow at St. Peter's College, Oxford, may have contributed subtly to this approach. The present editors are very appreciative of the imaginative insights of H.L. Mencken in "The American Language," as the editors of the previous supplement were not. And quotations from such as Henry Miller, D.H. Lawrence and Philip Roth to illustrate the raunchier nuances would make the earlier editors open their eyes wide — then blink. Incidentally, some of those shadier words centuries ago were cleaner, almost clinical.

It cannot be stressed too much that this latest work is a supplement, not a complete dictionary. Prudently it was brought out a year after "The Compact Edition of the Oxford English Dictionary," in small print requiring a magnifying glass, which reduced the original 13 volumes to two and the cost from $300 to $75.

BURT REYNOLDS LATE SHOW-- "Burt Reynolds in London": Reynolds is joined in London by guests Michael Caine, Edward Fox, Roger Moore and Ryan O'Neal, who talk about love, women's lib, publicity, critics and bad movies. (Color)

Guests Michael Caine, Edward Fox, Roger Moore, and Ryan O'Neal join "Burt Reynolds In London," where they talk about love, women's lib, publicity, critics and bad movies, on "The Burt Reynolds Late Show," to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Saturday, Nov. 10 (10:30 PM to 12:00 CST). In some cities, the show will be presented Sunday, Oct. 14 at the same time.

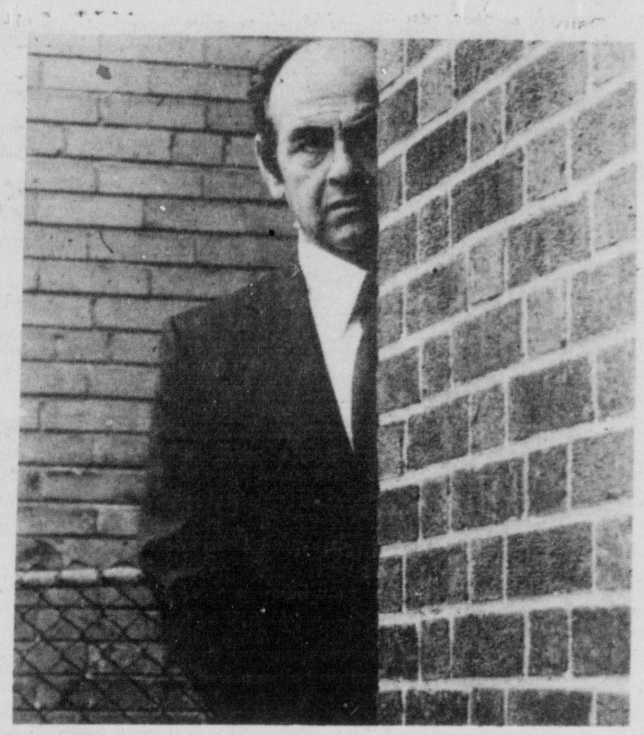

This is the second of six different 90- minute special event entertainment shows starring Reynolds, being colorcast approximately once a month (preempting "The Weekend Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson").

Though "bad pictures" is among the topics discussed, Reynolds's guest stars are known for a number of outstanding films and performances.

Caine received the Best Actor nomination (together with co- star Laurence Olivier) for "Sleuth" and starred in "The Ipcress File." Fox starred in "The Day of the Jackal," and Moore, known for his TV series, "The Saint," has become the newest James Bond in "Live and Let Die."

CO— STARRING IN "POLICE SURGEON"

Larry Mann co- stars as Lieutenant Jack Gordon in "Police Surgeon," the double- action adventure series spotlighting a young physician on a big city police force. As the supervisor of Police Surgeon Locke (played by star Sam Groom), he shares the challenge of the most dangerous cases on the police log. "Police Surgeon" is seen Saturdays at 6:00 P.M. on WDXR- TV
